PROTESTERS RIOT

Israeli Pull-Out Ordered by PM

JERUSALEM (AP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion gave the final orders today directing withdrawal of remaining Israeli troops from Egypt. The decision brought bitter demonstrations in Jerusalem.

Hundreds of demonstrators marched through the streets demanding that the Ben-Gurion government resign.

"Stop the withdrawal," the crowd shouted. Police clashed with the demonstrators, made several arrests and closed the streets to prevent the demonstrators, mostly students, from marching on the parliament buildings.

The demonstrations broke out as Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israeli chief of staff, met Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force, to work out details of the UN takeover in the Gaza Strip and along the Gulf of Aqaba.

Six Drug Addict Convicts Break Out of B.C. Prison

Ottawa Moves On Federal Hospital Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government, apparently reacting to Progressive Conservative charges that it is "bluffing" on its hospital insurance proposals, today initiated parliamentary action to get its scheme on the statute books.

However, federal spokesmen made clear that the scheme would not begin functioning with the mere passage of the enabling legislation. The government-fixed minimum of six provinces covering at least half the Canadian population would have to sign up first.

Ontario, for example, has stated it likely could not get its scheme operating before January, 1959. Federal officials said there would be no outlays of federal funds for the plan until all of the minimum six provinces started operating their schemes.

But the federal action, in asking parliament for enabling legislation, would make clear that the government is ready to do its share. It has offered to put up half the cost of standard hospital care and diagnostic services.

"ELECTION BLUFF"

George Hees (PC-Toronto Broadview) charged at Englehart, Ont., Wednesday that the Liberals had no intention of proceeding with their insurance scheme, that they were using it merely as "election bait."

A federal authority told a reporter: "You saw what Mr. Hees said last week? Well, this is our answer."

Health Minister Martin gave notice on the Commons order paper of a resolution which would precede the actual introduction of enabling legislation.

FIVE SIGNED

The federal health insurance proposal was made to the provinces in January, 1956.

Officials said they consider that five provinces have agreed to enter—Ontario, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland. They believe Nova Scotia and possibly New Brunswick may also come in soon.

The federal government would pay half the cost of the scheme, estimated to total about $400,000,000 if all the provinces enter. However, Ontario had indicated it would be difficult to get its plan ready to operate before January, 1959.

This central province is considered the keystone to the overall plan and therefore it appears unlikely there would be any federal expenditures for scheme in the 1957-58 budget to be brought down by Finance Minister Harris.

Federal informants said the main purpose of the latest government action is to indicate clearly that it is ready to proceed with its health proposal.

ASSESSMENT UP

No Tax Boost For Victoria, Dowell Predicts

A $4,964,139 increase in Victoria property assessment totals announced at City Hall today indicates 1957 taxes will be held to the 1956 level, in the opinion of Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell.

The increase, due to alterations and new constructions, mainly in the home-building field, means an added tax income this year of about $103,700 (based on the 1956 mill rate).

Gross city assessment now stands at $144,065,602.

Acting-Mayor Dowell said: "The increased potential plus the recently-indicated increase in federal grants makes it very likely there will be no increase in the mill rate this year."

PGE Freight Derailed

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A rock slide at Mile 23, between North Vancouver and Squamish slammed into a 40-car PGE freight train derailling at least two cars at 5 a.m. today.

No one was injured.

Officials said wrecking crews have been dispatched to the scene to clear the rock from the right of way. It is not known when the line will be reopened. Early reports gave no indication of the extent of damage to the southbound train.

The slide, believed caused by a combination of blasting crews working the area earlier and the vibration from the train, held up the scheduled passenger train due to leave North Vancouver at 7:45 a.m. today.

U.S. Airliner Crashes Soon After Passing City

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—Investigators sought an explanation today for the mystery of how an Alaska Airlines four-engine DC4 met disaster late Saturday afternoon only 18 minutes from its Seattle-Tacoma airport destination. It was on the home leg of a flight of more than 1,500 miles from Fairbanks.

The Alaska Airlines four-engine DC4 met disaster late Saturday afternoon only 18 minutes from its Seattle-Tacoma airport destination. It was on the home leg of a flight of more than 1,500 miles from Fairbanks.

(The airliner normally would have passed over Victoria's environs shortly before it crashed. Several Victorians have reported hearing a plane flying fairly low over the city at the time. Scene of the crash is 50 miles south of Victoria.)

Searchers found the charred wreckage Sunday at the 2,000-foot level about 30 miles southeast of here. The bodies of the two passengers and three crew members were brought here.

Ironically, both the passengers were making quick trips to the States to visit their mothers—one because the mother is critically ill; the other for a birthday surprise.

Miss Constance Reppert, 24, was on a three-week leave for a surprise visit for her mother's birthday at Elkins, W. Va. Miss Reppert was a recreation director at army anti-aircraft sites in the Fairbanks area.

Leroy Kelley, 38, a carpenter at Ladd Air Force Base, was flying south because of the illness of his mother in Texas.

Pilot, Stewardess Were Canadians

The crew members were Capt. Larry Currie of Seattle, the pilot; Lyle Edwards, Seattle, co-pilot; and Elizabeth Goods of Roblin, Man., the stewardess.

Capt. Currie, about 40, was a former resident of St. Boniface, Man. He attended school there and later went to Alaska, where he learned to fly. He has since flown in various parts of the world. He married Helen Berg, also a former St. Boniface resident.

Miss Good, 25, attended high school in Roblin and after one year at normal school in Winnipeg she taught for two years near Portage la Prairie, Man. She went to the United States last October to train as a stewardess.

Normally, the plane would have been carrying a far greater number of passengers, but airline officials said Saturday flights from Alaska to Seattle generally are light.

Currie, a native of Portland, had been with the company about 10 years and was described by the airline and friends as "one of the best pilots in the business." He leaves a wife and four children. Edwards, who had been with the line about nine years, is survived by his widow and two children.

The plane crashed against a timbered slope after the pilot had radioed at 5:16 p.m. that he was flying "visual," which meant it was clear enough for him to fly without instruments.

Paint Used To Cover Sawn Bars

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Six drug addicts used a paint brush and a pot of green paint to cloak their escape from Oakalla Prison Farm Sunday night.

The clever ruse gave them an hour's start over pursuing authorities from the prison, six miles from Vancouver.

Warden Hugh Christie said the prisoners — "all addicts" — sawed through a screened and barred door on the north side of the east wing earlier Sunday.

"The escape was so simple it's painful," the warden said.

One of them who had been painting the ground floor of the wing a deep green, smeared paint over the sawed bar and screen and put each piece back in place.

It was not learned how the prisoners got possession of a hack saw.

Sunday night, shortly after 7 o'clock, nearly 200 men were milling about on the ground floor after holding evening exercises, the warden said.

PROTECTED BY CROWD

Protected by the crowd, the six convicts removed the cut screen and sawed bar and squeezed through.

"Apparently they crossed the roof of the kitchen and dropped on to a road running by the east side of the prison," Warden Christie continued.

None of the guards was aware of what had happened until they checked the prisoners in their cells at 8 p.m.

An RCMP police dog traced the convicts a block south from the prison to Oakland Street in Burnaby and lost them.

STAKED OUT

Vancouver police staked out all known hangouts for drug addicts while RCMP in Burnaby and police in New Westminster combed their areas.

The escapees were identified as John Conway and Allen Bonner, both 20, serving sentences for breaking and entering; Frank Schlosser, 46, in Oakalla for possession of house-breaking tools; Gilbert Evans, 30, forger; Franklin Browning, 21, breaking and entering; and George Perovich, 26, on a charge arising from the drug act.

WELL PLANNED

Warden Christie said the escape was "well organized and seemed to have been planned well in advance." He said the men apparently had accomplices waiting for them in a car near the prison.

"A man as well known as Schlosser would have help outside," he commented. Schlosser was serving his 14th term in Oakalla.

SECOND BREAK

For Perovich, it was the second break in less than a year. He fled alone last May 29 but was recaptured in an apartment after the landlady reported his strange behavior to the police.

Prison officials said three of the men were to have been released this year. Evans was due to be freed in November, Conway in August, and Bonner in October.

Perovich was to serve until April, 1958 and Browning until May, 1958.

LIVING COSTS HIT RECORD

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs rose again in January, pushing the consumer price index to a record 120.5, an increase of one-fifth of a point from 120.3 in December.

Main propelling forces for the rise, which followed a slight decline in December, were higher prices for gasoline, drugs, personal care items and alcoholic beverages, the bureau of statistics reported today. The index is based on 1949 prices equaling 100.

HANNA DEPORTATION CASE OPENS IN VANCOUVER COURT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Immigration Department today began its defence of a deportation order made against Christian George Hanna, a man without a country.

There is no precedent for the case of Hanna, 23. He stowed away aboard a Norwegian freighter in Beirut, Lebanon, in October, 1955, and was a virtual prisoner aboard the ship until last December.

Immigration Department officials refused Hanna permission to stay in Canada because he has no visa, passport, medical certificate or travel documents.

The department produced affidavits today saying that Hanna could possibly be admitted to the Lebanon if he were returned to Beirut. Hanna has said he doesn't want to go there.

Mollet Predicts Firmer NATO

Economic Integration of Europe Will Expand North American Trade, Parliament Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Economic integration of Europe will result in expanded trade with North America and guarantee a solid North Atlantic Alliance, Premier Guy Mollet of France said today.

In an address to the Senate and Commons in joint session, the French premier declared:

"... within a few months a living and constantly evolving and expanding reality will have been created, the European economic community, the presence of which will profoundly modify the present elements.

"The perspective of commercial exchanges with a united Europe in full development will be radically different from those with our isolated countries, and, no doubt, will be greatly expanded.

'Symbol of Hope for All Men'

"So I beg you to have confidence in the dynamism of the new organizations and, that in action, the imperfections you criticize will be corrected.

"Europe united is the only way for the countries of that continent to recover a true independence. It is the only way to guarantee a solid and enduring Atlantic alliance.

"The relations between the European and American continents can then develop on the basis of true equality.

"Beyond the Iron Curtain, the union of the European peoples will also be a symbol of hope for all men: living under oppression, who have not lost their will to liberty."

The statements were included in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Mollet also dealt with the Middle East situation and France's relations with Algeria.

He said it is the duty of free nations to oppose the subversive actions of pan-Arabism and pan-Slavism in the past, a myth in whose name a people's independence was attacked.

Mr. Mollet said the assurance of European unification is one of the principal objectives of French policy.

"I have worked to found it upon a solid Franco-German entente and I have encountered a similar determination, at every point, in Chancellor Adenauer and in the German government."

"Today France-German rivalry no longer exists, rather a confident co-operation which permits the establishment of ever-closer ties."

Canada Praised for NATO Troops

He paid tribute to Canada for stationing part of its armed forces on the European continent.

If there had been thousands of British, American and Canadian soldiers in Europe in 1914 and in 1939, neither the Kaiser nor Hitler would have gone to war.

"Today, because of the physical presence of your soldiers, and the British and American soldiers, the Soviet Union cannot have the slightest doubt about the consequences to herself of an aggression."

On the Algerian question, Mr. Mollet said "it is not acceptable" that the 1,200,000 Algerians of European origin be oppressed or chased out of Algeria by the 8,000,000 Moslems, "no more than it is acceptable that they profit by temporary economic advantages to oppress the Moslems."

The key to the problem was to obtain full equality of economic and political rights for all inhabitants of Algeria. France has offered a ceasefire and free elections but the rebels had refused to accept these proposals.

On the Middle East, Mr. Mollet said withdrawal of Israel from the Gaza Strip and Gulf soldiers, the Soviet Union cannot have the slightest doubt about the consequences to herself of an aggression."

Presence of the United Nations Emergency Force made it possible to avoid a return to the situation before Israel attacked Egypt and it must be used to conclude a general peace settlement.

"A partial or provisional settlement in the Middle East will always be a bad solution. Our peoples will not accept that we allow the situation to deteriorate again as it did in the last eight years when, under the cover of an armistice, the disorders were perpetuated and a state of masked warfare was finally established while the resolutions of the United Nations were constantly violated."

U.K. Lowers Plane Fares For Emigrants

LONDON (CP) — The British government has decided to allow airlines to extend cheap emigrant fare by air to Canada and the United States for three months. It was announced Saturday.

The reduction now applies until June 30 and will be reintroduced in November. The scheme was started last autumn and was intended as a winter concession only, but the response induced requests for an extension.

Persons classed as emigrants pay about £60 ($168) for a single tourist fare instead of about £100. They can take extra baggage. It has been estimated that the airlines granting the reduced fare are carrying among them about 6,000 to 7,000 emigrants a month.

Your Canadian Red Cross is on the job serving for you whenever and wherever there is a need for help.

2,000 Sign Against Goldstream Cemetery

A 2,000-name petition opposing establishment of a cemetery along the route of a Greater Victoria water supply line will be presented to Health Minister Eric Martin.

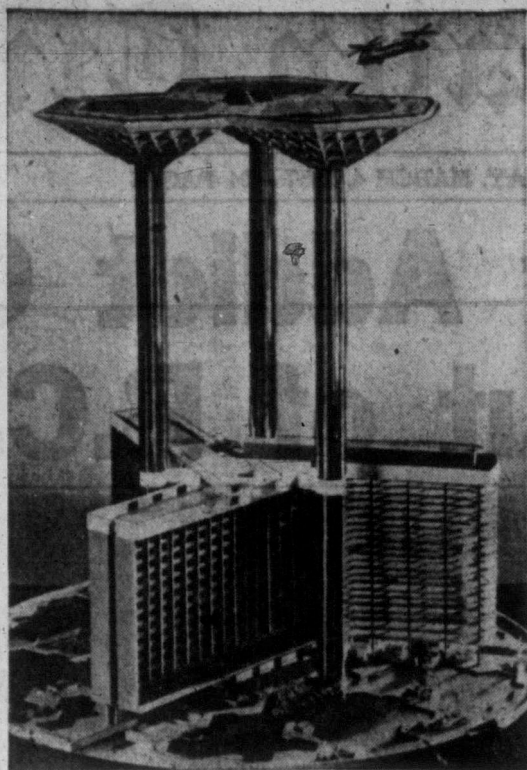

City lawyer William Moresby, chairman of the Greater Victoria Citizens' Committee, said he felt 20,000 names could be obtained in a public drive.

The petition opposes a decision announced last week by the Public Utilities Commission in favor of the Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Ltd. Approval was given for a garden-type cemetery on 30 acres of former farm lands near the junction of Goldstream Road and the Trans-Canada Highway.

The petition points out a water supply pipeline to the city and district passes through the land designated for cemetery use "and that there is likely to be seepage from the cemetery into our water supply."

LONDON'S MODERN LOOK—This is Skyport One, a sketch of an airport conceived by James Dartford. Although designed for the London of 2000 A.D., its creator believes it could be built today. It would be located in St. George's Circus, not far from Waterloo Station and would be 500 feet tall. Planes and helicopters would use the platform atop the three tall, glass-enclosed elevator shafts through which passengers and crew members would be carried from street level. Other features would be a sky-top restaurant with a far-reaching view of the city. The building below would house offices, hotels and garages. (NEA.)

'Feather-Bedding' Charged As CPR Diesel Probe Opens

OTTAWA (CP) — A royal commission inquiry today heard a charge and a denial that CPR

diesel firemen engage in "feather-bedding."

Feather-bedding is a term for the employment of men at a union's insistence who are not necessary to operation.

CPR counsel Ian D. Sinclair of Montreal used the term to describe the employment of firemen on road and yard diesel engines, the issue that precipitated a nine-day strike of firemen in January.

"That is grossly unfair," replied David Lewis of Toronto, counsel for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC).

The exchange came as they delivered opening statements before a three-man royal commission headed by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The commission was set up by the federal government after it obtained a temporary settlement of the CPR stoppage. Recommendations of the commission are not binding on the disputants.

The union and CPR lawyers also clashed on commission procedure at the outset, starting with the question of whether the inquiry should move to other parts of Canada besides Ottawa.

The commission reserved decision on the point.

Gales Rock Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP) — Two icy, wind-whipped storms raced across the Atlantic provinces over the week-end cutting communications and slowing land, sea and air traffic.

A gale whistled off the Atlantic into Newfoundland Saturday breaking off telegraph communications with the island province for 15 hours. Some circuits, connecting with Cape Breton were still out of operation Sunday night.

No fatalities were attributed to either storm.

In Nova Scotia, a roaring gale swept ice pellets, sleet and rain across the province Friday, folding power and telegraph lines in eastern Nova Scotia.

Firemen Go Modern ---Take Cab to Fire

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit firemen reported in style to a four-alarm blaze today.

They used 116 taxicabs to reach a fire in a two-storey building that caused damage estimated by fire chief Edward J. Blohm at $50,000.

The fire, discovered at 6:15 p.m., still was burning when a new shift of firemen reported for duty at 8 a.m.

Since their trucks and other equipment were at the scene, the reporting firefighters called taxicabs to carry them to the blazing building.

The firemen going off duty used the taxis to return to their stations.

A tally on the city's taxicab cost was not immediately available.

Terra Nova Completed By Late '58

Target date for completion of fitting out the destroyer escort Terra Nova at Victoria Machinery Depot has been set for the fall of 1958, Harold Husband, president, said today.

The electronics-packed DDE, one of the second-half group of 14 ordered by the RCN in the new-ship program now nearing completion, has been awaiting final approval by the Department of National Defence for the "lead" vessel in the group, built in Eastern Canada by Canadian Vickers.

A similar ship, the Fraser at Yarrow's Ltd., is a member of the first group, and will be ready for trials this summer.

Mr. Husband said work on the Terra Nova would go ahead as fast as required material is secured.

1,100 PEAK

"It is likely our present work force will build up to a peak of close to 1,100 at times while we are finishing the Terra Nova," he said.

He pointed out the need of new-ship orders to maintain a full working force. At present about 850 men are on the VMD payroll.

No new navy orders are yet in sight to take up the slack when the present program is finished.

"We are out after industrial work to keep busy," he said. "We are expanding industrial fabrication facilities. But nothing will take the place of ship-building."

$2,000 Program Of Scholarships Set by Shipyards

Recipients of the Yarrow's award may attend either UBC or Victoria College for the first two years of university study.

The awards are open to students completing high school and planning to enter any university course, and will be based on academic, personal and leadership qualities.

U.S. ADMIRAL'S VIEWPOINT

RN's Mediterranean Fleet Labelled 'Support Force'

LONDON (Reuters) — A newspaper today quotes Vice-Admiral Charles L. Brown, commander of the United States Sixth Fleet, as saying the British Navy henceforth will be useful only as a support force in its traditional stamping ground of the Mediterranean.

In a front-page report from the American flag ship Salem, the News Chronicle quotes Brown as saying: "The Sixth Fleet packs more power and possesses a greater flexibility, versatility and instant readiness than any other mobile force in the area and very soon it will be greatly strengthened."

"While we carry out the attacking role, should it be necessary, it seems to me that the Royal Navy would be employed on the complementary role of keeping open our supply and communication lines."

Commenting editorially on the report, the News Chronicle says news of the Sixth Fleet's "astonishing power" is bound to be received with mixed feelings in Britain.

It is clear from the report, it says, that "the control we once exercised in this area is a thing of the past."

ROCKET MOON FLIGHT DUE IN FIVE YEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brig.-Gen. H. F. (Frank) Gregory, director of the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, said today the U.S. Air Force may shoot a rocket around the moon within five years.

Gregory confirmed an article in Missiles and Rockets magazine which quoted him as saying:

"Several moon rocket study contracts are in the works, and it is imperative that we carry out these scientific research projects to stay ahead of the Russians."

"When I say that we will have a moon rocket in less than five years, it is a conservative estimate."

CYCLING CHAMP—AGE 3½

100 Blocks--- 100 Minutes

PORTLAND (AP) — David Draper, 3½ years old and a likely cycling champion, finally was crowned Sunday. But not stopped.

The family began searching for him Sunday, only minutes after he peddled away on his tricycle.

A policeman reported a small figure pumping vigorously away up a street partway across town. But it was so far away the family concluded it could not be David.

The search continued at a nearby park.

It was 100 minutes and 100 blocks away before a patrolman finally nabbed David, still peddling.

To the housego they went, but the family was out searching and it was two hours before the police could notify them of David's safety.

Meanwhile, David got his tricycle and peddled around in the police station.

"David Crockett," he said when asked his name. "You can call me Davey," he added, rounding another corner.

He still was going at it when father Frank Draper Jr. finally showed up to take him home.

De Valera, 74, Near-Blind Favored To Win Irish Election Tuesday

DUBLIN (AP) — Eamon de Valera, in fighting form at 74 though almost blind, today wound up a strong campaign to win back the premiership of the Irish Republic.

De Valera's Fianna Fail (men of destiny) appeared out front in the campaign for Tuesday's general election. There was every prospect the old revolutionist would regain the job he held for 18 years.

The election was forced by the resignation of a coalition government led by John A. Costello, 65-year-old Dublin lawyer. The campaign was the quietest since Southern Ireland's 26 southern counties became independent in 1922.

Cyprus Rebel Leader Killed; Monks Held

A British soldier was killed in the 10-hour fight Sunday.

Association Cup Football Draw

LONDON (Reuters) — The draw for the semi-final matches in the English Football Association Cup, to be played March 23:

Birmingham or Nottingham Forest vs. Manchester United.

Burnley or Aston Villa vs. West Bromwich Albion or Arsenal.

Locations for the games, which depend on the outcome of the three undecided sixth-round matches, will be announced later.

Draw for the semi-finals of the Scottish Cup, also to be played March 23, was:

Glasgow Celtic vs. Kilmarnock, at Hampden Park; Glasgow Raith Rovers vs. Falkirk, on Heart of Midlothian's ground at Tynecastle Park, Edinburgh.

A hunch by security force intelligence officers led to the killing of No. 2 EOKA terrorist Gregoris Alexiou and capture of his four comrades, all pledged to drive the British from this colony and unite Cyprus with Greece.

Alexiou, operational chief of the EOKA movement, died fighting in his hideout near this monastery south of Nicosia.

The monks had smilingly shown British army officers around the monastery Thursday and explained the history of several ancient icons displayed there.

KILLED BY BLAST

Sunday's gun battle ended when an explosive charge, detonated on top of the terrorists' cave, wrecked it and killed Alexiou.

UNUSUAL BAPTISM HERE

Children Named For Sanskrit Gods

One of the most unusual forms of baptism ever to be conducted in North America was held here Sunday.

The two small boys of Mr. and Mrs. Marc Norman, who operate the Universal Fellowship Centre, 1928 Oak Bay Avenue, received the names of Sanskrit gods during a Vedantic baptism.

It was conducted by Swami Agehananda Bharati, white abbot of a monastery in northern India.

Oldest boy, two received the name in religion of Reva Kimara, meaning "Prince of the Sun," Sunday being the day of his birth; his brother, aged eight weeks, was baptized Mangalor, "Prince of Mars." He was born on a Tuesday, feast day of the Sanskrit god.

SAT ON RUG

To the background of ancient Sanskrit plain chant by the abbot, Mr. and Mrs. Norman sat with the monk on a rug centred by a small altar.

Each parent in turn held a child while the chant to the infinite rose. The abbot then lighted a small brazier with wood shavings, and a spoon of butter for each child was added to the flames.

This symbolized man's conquest of animal instincts.

Mrs. Norman held the children to be baptized, actually done by the abbot's giving them their Sanskrit names, and waving smoke from the brazier towards them.

Small portions of wild rice were beside the altar, typifying fertility.

Final act in the unusual ceremony was an invocation by the abbot to Shiva, goddess of preservation.

50 ATTEND

About 50 persons were present for the event which took 20 minutes.

The boys will not be commonly called by their Sanskrit names, Brooke Kent is the oldest and his brother is Curtis Arthur.

Decision to have the children baptized in the Eastern ritual was made by Mr. Norman, who considers the ceremony "the most pure" among comparative religions.

The fellowship centre, operated by the Normans engages in open discussion on such subjects as music appreciation, psychosomatics, metaphysics, extra-sensory perception and related matters.

Missing 7 Days, Girl, 4, Found Dead in Closet

BELLMAN, N.J. (AP) — The search for tiny Mary Jane Barker ended with a playmate's discovery of her huddled body in a closet of a vacant ranch-house.

Six-year-old Maria Prietta, visiting the newly-built house of her aunt, playfully threw open a closet door Sunday. A puppy which had disappeared along with Mary Jane last Monday bounded out. On the floor, however, lay the body of the four-year-old girl.

A medical authority said in his opinion the child probably died of fright and starvation after being trapped in the three-by-five closet with the black spaniel puppy.

New Jet Turbine Out-Powers Liner

LONDON (Reuters) — The de Havilland Aircraft Company said today it has reached the limit of conventional gas-turbine jet engine developments with a model capable of 20,000 pounds thrust.

The engine, the de Havilland Gyron 2, is designed to blast planes along between 1,000 and 2,000 miles an hour at 50,000 feet.

It packs more power than the giant engines which drive the liner Queen Mary.

A de Havilland spokesman said: "Future advances will have to rely on the ram-jet or some other kind of power unit."

The previous most powerful jet engine was the British Bristol Olympus which develops 16,000 pounds thrust.

DO MUNICIPAL BOUNDARIES AFFECT THE CHOICE OF SCHOOL SITES?

NO! The Greater Victoria School Board serves the metropolitan area AS A UNIT and schools are located for the convenience of the greatest number of pupils.

FOR INSTANCE—

The proposed Esquimalt High School will serve its own immediate area AND ALSO:

- (a) Victoria City by serving the entire Victoria West area
- (b) The Rural Area of View Royal
- (c) That part of Saanich lying near the Gorge and Craigflower Bridges.

SIMILARLY—

The proposed Oak Bay High additions will serve Victoria City along the municipal boundary in the Bank Street and Margaret Jenkins areas. It will also serve the Ten Mile Point area in addition to Oak Bay.

AND—

Gordon Head Junior High will serve its own rapidly-growing area. It will also relieve Lansdowne Junior High where a proposed addition will enable it to serve the Lansdowne-Willows area and part of the eastern section of Oaklands district in Victoria City.

A STUDY OF THE PROPOSED SCHOOL-BUILDING PROGRAMME WILL SHOW THAT SCHOOLS ARE BEING PLACED WHERE NEEDED, IRRESPECTIVE OF MUNICIPAL BOUNDARIES

The Salmon Are Saved

SO LONG AS THE PRESENT Canadian Government is in office there will be no power dams on the Fraser River. This is the meaning of Mr. Sinclair's recent statements in Parliament. Speaking for the Government, he rejects out of hand the argument that we can obtain both salmon and power from the Fraser. The Government has decided in favor of salmon.

The struggle between power and fishing interests has long been confused by propaganda.

On behalf of the power interests, eager to dam the Fraser, it has been said that scientists now know how to transport spawning salmon across high dams.

Mr. Sinclair, advised by his own experts, says that "the best scientists in the world agree that a system of dams in the Fraser River waterways, would completely ruin the salmon industry there within a four-year cycle of the salmon's life."

At the same time Mr. Lloyd A. Royal, director of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, was telling the New Westminster Board of Trade that Canada must choose irrevocably between power and fish on the Fraser.

There is, says this eminent authority, no known means of maintaining salmon in a dammed river. If we dam the Fraser we shall repeat the experience of Washington State where the great Columbia salmon fishery has been virtually extinguished by power developments.

That will not happen in Canada. "It is our policy," Mr. Sinclair says on behalf of the Government, "not to dam any salmon waterway until every other non-salmon stream has been dammed for power." Accordingly, Canadian policy is based on the alternative development of the Upper Columbia, where no salmon spawn.

The vast Columbia powers—however they are divided between Canada and the United States—are ample to supply British Columbia's needs for many years to come. When they are fully utilized, Mr. Royal believes, "atomic power will be the answer."

It may well be the answer by that time, though at present atomic power cannot compete with hydro in price. At any rate, we do not have to choose between atomic power and hydro now.

But if we do not intend to dam the Fraser we shall need, within the visible future, all the power we can get out of the Columbia. We shall need it for new industries in the interior, for the growing metropolis of Vancouver and probably for Vancouver Island.

The Canadian Government is therefore unquestionably right in opposing the export of Columbia power to the United States as a general policy.

Already the Government is under strong pressure to permit such exports because they would be profitable in the short run and would make it easy for a private company to finance the great dam at Mica Creek.

In the long run, however, we shall need power much more than cash. If we are finally compelled to make some exports, until we can use all the output of Mica Creek ourselves, we must be sure that we can stop them when the power is needed here. Our past experience, in the case of exports from Ontario, suggests that there is no sure way of recovering power once it has been alienated to American users.

Joining the New Civilization

ON TUESDAY THE GOLD Coast ceases to be a British colony and becomes the first independent Negro member of the British Commonwealth.

The event is impressive. It marks another transition by a former subject people to mastery in their own house—a transition which Britain has been accepting with good grace in many of the lands formerly colored red on the world map.

It is to be expected that the emergence of Ghana, as the new Commonwealth member is called, will be accompanied by some misgivings. Well-wishers familiar with the country when it was a colony will wonder if its citizens have achieved the maturity needed to run their own show. At least, they are ready to undertake that responsibility—thereby giving the direct answer to Russia and certain Asian powers never tired of blaming Britain for its efforts to remain an imperial power with dominance over colonies.

The United Press has listed preparations for Ghana's celebration of its new status. The news agency reports the importation of 150 Cadillac cars to transport distinguished persons from function to function, and the accumulation of stocks of gin as a welcoming libation.

Surely the people of the new Commonwealth member are entitled to their festivities — if necessary, to these sophisticated adjuncts of present day living. But it may be taken for granted that graduation from colony status means much more to the former Gold Coast than entry into the civilization of Cadillacs and gin, much as those symbols are mistaken for characteristics of western society.

The Lawyer's Dilemma

BRITISH COURTS HAVE RULED invalid the will of the late George Bernard Shaw which provided finances for a study of the English language. The purpose of the study was to set up a new 40-letter alphabet which the famous Irish wit and playwright held would be a vast improvement over the present one.

The rejection of the validity of the will is viewed in news reports as a failure of Mr. Shaw's plan. But it is open to question just what that plan was. As the presiding judge said, rejection of the will "is not the fault of the law but of the testator who failed almost for the first time in his life either to grasp the legal problem or to make up his mind what he wanted."

There are many who will not, agree with this. G.B.S. requested that if the will should be rejected by the courts, the money should be divided evenly between the British Museum, the National Gallery of Ireland and the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. This may well have been his real intention, and the alphabet clause have been inserted merely in a Puckish spirit to start a little controversy and add interest to an otherwise routine bequest.

In that light the will has been eminently successful. More than six years after the playwright's death the matter is still a subject of hot debate, and Shaw's shade, if it be looking on, must be smiling hugely behind its nebulous white beard. Everything has gone according to plan.

'Let's Get Outta Here!'

LET'S FACE IT

By B. A. TOBIN

Thought for the Week

THIS column will shock a lot of people but I think it ought to be written. If you don't know there's a hole in your tooth you won't bother to get the tooth fixed. If you don't realize there's a persistent trouble in your community you won't be moved to correct it.

This is Education Week. You will probably hear talks on school topics, you'll read articles on the shortage of classrooms and teachers, hear complaints about the cost of teaching our youngsters, and be asked to look at statistics. Here are some statistics you may not come across elsewhere:

Did you know that more than a hundred unmarried teenagers of this town have babies each year? That many of them are youngsters who have to leave school to seek help?

Courting Disaster

Did you know that at one junior high school in this city 80 of the pupils have juvenile court records? That at another junior high the number is even larger? Did you know that about 350 teenagers a year pass through juvenile court here to face charges of one kind or another? That one-third of these are in the category of "serious" cases?

Local teachers and welfare workers will give you such figures and others equally unpalatable. They make unpleasant reading for a community like ours. But they are there in black and white. What are we going to do about them?

Some of you no doubt already are mentally drafting out letters to the editor to denounce me for smearing our youth. You will point to a hundred fine young girls and boys to prove that we have the best in the country. I will point to another hundred of them and agree with you.

Not the Pattern

The kids I am talking about are not typical of Victoria school children. They in no sense detract from the achievements of our medalists and scholarship winners and the decent, clean youngsters who comprise the overwhelming majority.

But the delinquent 10 per cent group is there, and we are not doing much about the problem. I suspect that very few Victorians even know about it.

Some of the upper-grade teachers can tell you of it though. They can describe "special" boys' classes in which they aren't turn their backs for a moment to write on the board or shenanigans will break out that take the rest of the hour to quell. They will tell you of insolence in the classrooms from overgrown three-year-repeaters who take shelter behind the law: "You don't dare put your hands on me!"

They will tell you of muttered obscenities from boys who swagger past them in the schoolyard secure in the knowledge that the teacher has no real retaliation. They will tell you of organized baiting by "imported" pupils who hang around the schoolyards at recess and dinner hour, basking in the hero worship of younger lads and daring the teacher on duty to provoke an incident.

Under Protection

Only the other day a local junior high school principal was defied by a visiting lout, found himself in a tussle and was thrown to the ground. Two teachers who grabbed the youth remembered the law—you mustn't lay hands on a juvenile. They released him and the young hoodlum walked away scot-free. City policemen will tell you they are similarly thwarted.

"In classes of these boys we're not instructors, we're wardens," one teacher says bitterly. "You get no work out of them. The only hope is to keep them interested enough to stay quiet."

Delinquent girls are fewer in number and are not so unruly. But these 14 and 15-year-old girls' tales of car rides, roadside parties devoted to smoking and drinking and what one intercepted classroom note described as "you know what," are bound to attract other youngsters of limited moral background.

Salvage Possible

Welfare workers split the delinquent 10 per cent into two categories. The majority of the children are adrift in life because of home environment: lack of discipline, lack of objectives, lack of love. Most of them are reclaimable.

A smaller number are really lost. They are victims of relentless heredity. Their family histories show alcoholism, persistent lawlessness and other inherent defects that, except for a miracle, doom them to similar fates. As one welfare worker said, their stories are written on them before they start: Junior high school, the streets and alleys, Brannan Lake, Oakalla . . .

Hearing of such unfortunates, you are reminded of Sir Winston Churchill's expressed fear that "God might grow weary of mankind."

This is Education Week — a good week in which to learn something. Let's look into this question again on Wednesday.

Saanich By-Election

On March 9 the Saanich voters will be called on to elect two members to the Council.

There are several young men running for these vacant seats against two older men who were in Council before. Surely the time has come when we voters desire some young blood in our affairs in Saanich. We have had a sample of some backward thinking on our Council and the taxpayers have paid dearly for some of the mistakes of the past.

Are we going to elect the same "old gang" with the same "old thinking" to run our affairs in Saanich? All taxpayers who wish to see progress in Saanich should think very carefully their decision on March 9. Ex-Reeve Casey cannot escape the fact that he must shoulder some responsibility for the general slipshod manner in which our affairs have been carried out.

After being soundly defeated at the polls a little over a year ago he now seeks to re-enter the Council. It may be that he has his eye on the next municipal election for the office of Reeve and thereby complete the "old guard" Council. One may well ask, is this what the voters of Saanich want?

Slander

I was glad to see someone took up the "Teenagers" in their slander of our service men. Evidently neither they nor their mothers knew what they were talking about.

If it had not been for our husbands, sons, and brothers they would likely be in Russia and shot for saying anything like that.

C. S. WILLIAMS.

Erroneous Report

I see by Monday's paper that our Y-Teens were reported as saying "dating between servicemen and high school girls is objectionable because servicemen have an unfavorable reputation." This is quite untrue. What we did discuss was why parents object to dating with servicemen. Instead of sending a reporter or at least checking your facts, you appear to have copied an erroneous report.

CAROL WATTIE.

Prayer in the Ring

The letter by Mr. H. V. O'Reilly, Feb. 26, quoting the sport page report of the murderous exhibition on TV of brutality in the Basilio-Saxton prize fight, when the victor "dropped to both knees . . . crossed himself . . . and uttered a two-minute prayer of thanksgiving," reminds me of my boyhood days in Gloucester, England.

Near home dwelt a religious fanatic whom the local boys teased to such an extent that the man rushed madly out of his cottage, knelt in the road, then furiously pelted the boys with stones and yelled: "Me 'eavenly feyther will guide th' stones and they'll be sure to hit 'ee."

These incidents illustrate, not the futility of acceptable prayer, but rather that they are the product of false religious teaching and belief.

Fire and Vic West

Some little time back the Fire Chief was advocating a fire hall being opened at Victoria West again.

I think he is quite right. If it was necessary years ago to have one, it is doubly so today because there is 1,000% more value in the same area today than there was then.

Everyone knows—especially the men who have had experience in firefighting—how very important the first five minutes of a fire are. Besides, fire insurance companies work on a per cent basis on fire damage and chances of same in certain districts. It is a wonder to me Victoria West has not advocated the opening of a fire hall long ago.

An Echo From Below

Mr. Keate, your publisher, seems to have drawn quite a concentration of fire for his remarks about the RN. The gold braid behind some of the salvos was impressive to say the least.

I wonder where these RN or RN-trained officers get the idea that they are the perfect Joe to the men on the lower deck. In my opinion if travelling warrants were issued in terms of respect they would never get through the dockyard gate.

I always gained the impression when I stood in front of a RN (that man) officer that he never saw me, all he saw was a "rig of the day," and stand by Mr. if the tapes on your jumper were not fastened in a proper seaman-like manner with a little pudding bag below the bow. You were liable to be in the battle so fast it would make your head swim, and the charge could be anything from being improperly dressed to mutiny. They would catch you somewhere between the two.

Had to have discipline you know (and little pudding bags) backbone of the RN (discipline I mean not little pudding bags). If you said something to him that was not specifically covered by KR's and AIs you could see him mentally debating whether to ignore the remark or call out the victualing party and have them put this termite back into whatever cheese it crawled out of.

Cheer up though, you gentlemen who's little tin god raised his glass to his sightless eye, I heard something the other day that should make you giggle in the next tot of his blood you drink.

Just recently a wooden hull was launched in one of the local shipyards—I repeat a WOODEN hull—I know it's for an ultra-modern minesweeper but that's not the point, the point is it's wooden. How about that, "the wooden walls of Canada." I'll bet old Nelson is just itching to hop right down off his column and take command.

Let me see what was that poem I learned at school. Oh, yes, here goes: Take my drum to the wet canteen, Hang it by the door. Strike it when the beer is running low And if the Dons sight Esquimaux! Don't say that it was my fault, 'Cause I wanted you to drink up long ago.

Yes, sir, and with wooden ships who knows we may get real Jack Tars back again with pistols and earrings, and maybe even a Capt. Bligh-type to order a taste of the rope's end to a certain insolent AB (UNO who).

P.S.—By the way, Mr. Keate, that Journalist 3rd Class, U.S.N., you mentioned in one of your articles, what would he be in the RN, a member of the press gang?

Aye! aye! sir. Just going sir. On the double sir.

Crisis in British Columbia Education - - - 1,000 Too Few Teachers Next September

BRITISH COLUMBIA today began its observance of Education Week. Whatever else it draws to public attention, for the informed, the biggest single fact of the time will be the dismayed teacher crisis that looms in September.

When the next school year begins, say some authorities, this province will be short 1,000 teachers. It has been short before. On earlier occasions B.C. has turned expediently to various sources to relieve the scarcity.

Now, say those in a position to know, these sources have dried up.

Numerical deficiencies in staff are revealed by simple arithmetic. Next year British Columbia will see 20,000 additional students in classrooms. They are the product of the high post-war birthrate and the influx of new settlers with children.

An addition of 20,000 students calls for about 700 more teachers.

Customarily the profession loses 700 to 1,000 teachers a year—some through retirement, some through marriage in the case of women, and some for other reasons.

The College of Education in Victoria and Vancouver this year will supply between 500 and 700 new members to the profession—barely enough to match the drop-out, nowhere near enough to meet the needs of 20,000 more students.

In recent years the gap between teachers available in B.C. and those required to handle increased enrolments has been closed in several ways.

The authorities have called back into service married women who left the profession to make homes. British Columbia has attracted others from the prairies and eastern Canada. Some teachers have been recruited in Britain.

Supply Sources Exhausted

Now, say members of the profession, virtually all the married women who can be persuaded to return to teaching have returned. The flow of candidates from the prairies and the east has reversed because the prairies and the east have improved salaries and working conditions in the schools. Recruitment in Britain is negligible.

Experienced and informed members of the profession see the situation clearly and are alarmed. They are alarmed for two main reasons.

Because of the emergency which has existed in recent years, they have watched the employment of many individuals who are completely unsuited for teaching. These are the people sometimes called "baby-sitters" who stand before classes but add nothing to the stature of the profession in B.C.

Secondly the informed teachers are dismayed by the prospect that the supply crisis will lead to attack on the College of Education. They anticipate a cry for a return to the one-year Normal School system so that candidates may be processed more rapidly for jobs in classrooms.

Such a development would destroy what they consider to be the most promising effort made to train better teachers and attract more appropriate candidates to the profession.

Given time they are convinced the College of Education will pay dividends. They are opposed to any action in an emergency which would rub out the gains which have been made.

Under the College of Education teacher certification falls into four general classes.

Students may take one year at the College or University and then be released on conditional certificates to teach temporarily in the elementary schools. This is the "crash" program originally designed to cope with the immediate and critical shortage.

Low Men on the Totem

It has obvious inadequacies. Those who take it lack security. They must supplement their one-year at the College of Education with other studies within a certain period or lose the right to teach. They are the low men on the educational totem.

Potential teachers, realizing the limitations of the emergency course, have generally shunned it. Enrolment has been far below expectations. Victoria and Vancouver will graduate fewer 1957 students from first-year education than were passed through Normal School last year. Last year, incidentally, Normal School classes were unusually high, say some authorities, because of the number who rushed in for a quick preparation for jobs in order to avoid the longer university courses.

More popular, and giving higher standards, is the two-year College of Education course which leads to a basic elementary school teaching certificate. It represents the irreducible minimum for continued teaching—as opposed to the temporary emergency certificate.

But if that course promises to help meet the requirements of schools for more teachers, it will be of no help in September. The first students completing it will not be available until 1958.

When the other two degree courses—one of four years which equips the student to teach elementary schools, and the other of five years which gives a degree for secondary schools—start producing graduates, the general shortage should be considerably eased. That, however, is also something for the future.

The situation is more easily understood by an examination of high school graduation figures.

The total number of University Entrance course graduates in the last few years has run annually from 1,800 to 2,500. Of these roughly one-third have been encouraged to take up teaching, leaving the other two-thirds for all the other professions and vocations which require university training.

Problem of Birthrate

That division shows how relatively attractive teaching has become, but there were just not enough babies born a generation ago to grow up to be teachers of the vastly increased number of postwar babies now in school.

Members of the profession are aware of all this. They see relief in the future, when more students go through University Entrance courses.

But the crisis is coming up in September. Those who have studied the question have certain suggestions for meeting it. Some of them—proposals which will probably form the basis of a B.C. Teacher Federation policy statement shortly—will be outlined in a second article in this space tomorrow.

Calendar of Flowers

BEFORE I end these columns to the office, I have to mark them with the date on which they will appear. And because I never know the date offhand, I usually jump up to look at my favorite calendar on the kitchen wall.

It's one of alpine and garden flowers with a different picture for every month. Each year, I'm given a new one for Christmas. The surprise has long since disappeared, but the delight in them still remains!

They're printed in Switzerland, and the one for 1957 is fairly typical. January's picture is of edelweiss—a study in white and soft grey and green. February is a scarlet geranium with two full-blown flowers and a bud that's almost ready to burst into bloom. In March, we'll have the blue and mauve of gentian and long-spurred violet.

And so it goes through the year—the gold of mountain arbutus, the contrasting colors of stemless gentian and striped mezerion. There's spring anemone, so lifelike that one could almost pluck it from the page.

There's a lovely arrangement of cornflowers with spikes of some golden kind of grass or grain. Silver thistle makes a soft quiet picture for December.

I love this calendar, but I often wish that I could find one made up of our native wild flowers.

I know the cost of printing it would be terrific and that, as yet, we haven't the population to make it a profitable venture.

But perhaps, in 50 years from now we'll manage it.

I'll be in my grave by then, but I know the flowers I hope posterity will choose.

Ruth

I hope the calendar will have a picture of spring gold, growing flat and close to the bright green grass as it does in very early spring.

I hope that it will have spikes of satin flower with the long thin leaves that look almost like strong blades of grass. I'd like it to show the slender little stalk that holds the reddish-purple flower. It must show the cradled bud when it is just a mysterious swelling on the spike of green.

It must have a shooting star rising brightly from its low, smooth leaves.

I'd like it to include one picture of black moist earth and grey alder trunk with bright skunk cabbage still unfurled.

I'd like a tiger lily bright and growing tall in the early summer bush. And chocolate lily, mottled brown and green. And easter lily of spotted leaf and pinkish stem with young buds pointing upwards to the sky.

I'd like wild roses blooming in a hedge that hasn't been bulldozed down in the name of progress.

The brilliant bracts of Indian paintbrush, the tiny pink bells of twin-flower, the purity of queen's cup with its leaves of shiny green, the familiar trillium of the woods—all these would make pictures for the calendar.

The trouble is that I'm not a botanist. Neither can I paint or draw.

But if I possessed these gifts, I'd have myself a wonderful time making my own wild-flower calendar with a beautiful picture for every month of the year.

Think of the snug occasions when I could leave the silly household tasks, and sally forth, saying to my menfolk, "Sorry, dears, but I am working on my calendar!" Wouldn't it be Heaven?

Or are my values terribly mixed up!

Crocuses Ultra Heat-Conscious

It seems to me that the pleasure of a garden is increased as much by observation as it is by cultural skill.

The early crocus species, which are now in their full beauty, are the more interesting as we watch them daily.

Scientists tell us that crocus blooms respond to as little as one-half degree change in temperature. This no doubt explains why these true harbingers of spring cannot successfully be grown in pots for indoor decoration. The heat of the average dwelling affords no chance for rest periods.

Hilda

Crocuses Ultra Heat-Conscious

The place for these delightful little species crocus is in the garden, where they will thrive and increase, affording us years of pleasure through observation with a minimum of culture.

Some varieties of these had their buds up during a warm spell in January, but were temporarily discouraged by freezing weather. They commenced flowering before the snowfall 10 days ago, and emerged from it to delight us during the subsequent warm days.

It is a source of interest to note how rapidly these small blossoms respond to the change of temperature so prevalent in our early springs. In sunshine the blooms are wide open, the orange anthers of the variety E. A. Böhles showing as a lovely contrast to the butter yellow of the petals, and in C. Fleischeri the anthers are orange red against the white petals.

LONDON LETTER

Rock Around a Million

LONDON—Selling a million gramophone records of a number is no rarity in the U.S. any more. But in Britain, with only a third of the population, it's a more difficult trick to pull off. In fact it has just been achieved for the first time. The disc that did it: Bill Haley's "Rock Around the Clock."

Previous best was Anton Karas' zither in action on The Harry Lime Theme, which sold 900,000 pressings not long after the war. Third best seller has been Winifred Atwill's "Let's Have a Party," with 800,000.

Don't know how familiar you are with pianist Atwill, but the English love her honky-tonk piano giving out with old favorites to which they can have a sing-song in a pub or at a Butlin's camp.

To consolidate his top ranking in the disc world, Bill Haley brings his Comets over next week to tour Britain through February.

LITTLE THINGS mean a lot—when it comes to tracking down a criminal. You just can't be too careful about small details if you are undertaking a career of crime.

Take the example of this fellow who blew up a safe. He had taken his gelignite to the scene of the crime wrapped in an old newspaper which he left behind when he made his getaway. The publisher was able to say from code marks on the paper which press had printed it and to what area it had been distributed. (All newspapers have their private printing symbols for each edition.)

So the police knew the locality where the paper had been bought. Also in pencil on the corner of the front page was number 182, put there by the news-agent who had delivered it. For England, 182 is a high street number. Check the few streets in the area that have a No. 182—and bingo!

POSTAGE STAMPS have been very much in the news since that dealer in Dartmouth got hold of a sheet of tuppenny-hapennies without perforations and found they were worth about $30,000. They were slipped to him by a girl who worked in the post office; she noticed the flaw, bought them herself and sold them to the dealer.

Luckily for her, she hasn't been fired despite the fact that she broke a post office regulation that all clerks must look out for imperfections and withdraw them from sale. Since then post office employees have become thoroughly bored by what has become a hackneyed gag from customers—"Two tuppenny-hapennies, please. Without perforations. Ha ha!"

But now the stamp talk has switched to Nasser's new Liberation of Port Said issue. It's a whopper (two-and-a-half by an inch) in rotogravure on sepia paper depicting the Egyptians setting about the flinging out of the invaders. The equivalent of a tuppenny-hapenny (perforated), it is selling at stamp shops here for seven times its face value.

Nasser is flooding the Middle East with this propaganda stamp and gets them into England indirectly through dealers on the continent. There's agitation for the treasury, which controls Britain's freeze-on-Egyptian sterling, to step in and stop Nasser earning pounds with anti-British propaganda.

Picketing at James Island Explosives Plant Due Tuesday

Pickets will be placed at the Canadian Industries Ltd. James Island explosives plant early Tuesday unless agreement is reached today in a wage dispute involving 14 unionized office workers.

Pickets will be respected by the 130 other plant employees, Robert Barrie, president of Canadian Chemical and Explosives Workers, Federal 128, stated today.

If the strike becomes prolonged, it could tie up much of the mining, construction and logging in British Columbia.

The plant, which produces 2,000 cases of dynamite daily, is the sole supplier for the province as far east as Nelson.

The wage dispute dates back to July last year when the Office Employees' International Union, Local 15, won certification for office workers and asked a $25 monthly across-the-board wage increase.

A conciliation board awarded $12.50, and the union conducted a strike vote in December. Tuesday is the last day a legal strike can be called.

"We are very anxious for a fair settlement and have done everything we can to bring this about," William Lowe, Vancouver, international representative of the office workers, said here today.

If the strike comes off, it will be the first time in B.C. labor history that office workers have picketed.

Dynamite supplies at the plant are not expected to last more than 10 days if operations halt.

The meeting at which plant strike action will be decided will be held in the Labor Temple here at 7:30 p.m. today.

W. Saanich Road To Be Paved During Summer

Except for hard surfacing, improvement work now underway on West Saanich Road is scheduled to be completed by the end of this month.

A B.C. highways department crew has been working off and on since last summer, straightening out the worst corners between Wilkison and Keating Cross Road.

About six main corners are involved.

District engineer Frank Laronde said today the main work of moving power poles, clearing and rock work will be finished by March 31, the end of the department's fiscal year.

Surfacing will be done this summer.

The job is being done by the provincial government because West Saanich Road is classed as a secondary highway.

One of the main problems was in acquiring property, since most of the land along the road now has been subdivided. All needed right-of-way has been purchased, however, an official said.

Saanich Building Total

Value of construction in Saanich last month climbed by nearly $900,000 over January to make a total of $1,272,285 for 45 building permits issued.

Early indications for construction figures this month are promising, the building inspector's office said.

Sharp up-grade in February totals was due to the new $378,000 Queen Alexandra Solarium at Gordon Head and a $123,000 addition to Mount View High School.

There were 72 permits valued at $374,375 issued in February.

Starring JAMES STEWART, MARLENE DIETRICH, JACK HAWKINS, GLYNIS JONES

Neil Shute has written some great novels from his own study of aeronautics and his services with the air force. The story told by our film is of a young research scientist who has a theory about a certain type of aircraft, due to disintegrate after 1,000 hours of flying time. To prove his theory he takes some extraordinary measures and incidentally finds romance along the way. Highly recommended and played by an excellent cast of English and American actors.

OVER USE OF WATERWAYS

'Israel', 'Egypt' Clash at Model UN

Angry exchange between "Israel" and "Egypt" highlighted debate in the model United Nations General Assembly at Central Junior High School Saturday.

"Delegates" from the two Middle Eastern countries clashed during debate on a resolution to internationalize all waterways used by more than one nation.

The model assembly was sponsored by Victoria chapter, United Nations Association, and the Business and Professional Women's Club, with 52 students from high schools and colleges on Vancouver Island taking the parts of delegates.

The resolution passed 17-5, with four abstentions.

French proposal that a committee investigate the plan and report to the General Assembly was defeated.

Egypt branded the resolution as "unfair, unreasonable, and illogical."

"How can the United Nations hope to control all waterways when it can't control an insignificant little country like Israel?" the delegate asked.

"International waterways are impossible under present-day circumstances," the delegate said.

Similar jabs brought the Israel delegate to her feet with a threat that Israel "is prepared to fight countries of the Middle East if Egypt doesn't leave us alone, and we're powerful enough to win."

The Egyptian attitude was supported by the United States delegate, who stated the United Nations "would not be capable of properly handling problems that would arise."

The delegate suggested Egypt be given control of the Suez Canal with the stipulation that the canal be open to ships of all countries.

The model United Nations closed its two-day session at noon Saturday with a luncheon given by the Business and Professional Women's Club at the club headquarters.

Speaker was Dr. H. L. Campbell, deputy education minister.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1957

MONTE ROBERTS

There are times when I despair of Victoria. And this is one of them.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of the City of Victoria has announced it will hold a "Miss-Victoria" contest in conjunction with the annual Victoria Industrial and Agri- cultural Exhibition (May 6 to 11, get your exhibit reserva- tions in early, free plug).

The winning "Miss Victoria," according to the contest rules, will be judged on the basis of charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelligence, special ability, and public choice by ballot.

With which I cannot quarrel.

I am heartily in favor of choosing Miss Victoria on the basis of charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelligence, special ability, and public choice by ballot.

I am sure that the Junior Chamber of Commerce will thus discover a Miss Victoria of whom Victoria can well be proud.

But this is where I begin to despair of Victoria.

Once this lady of charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelligence, special ability (who is also the people's choice), has been selected, do you know what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to do with her?

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to send her to Hawaii, that's what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to do with her.

After going to all the trouble of discovering the Miss in Victoria with the most charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure—I can't go on, this is killing me—the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to present her with a travel ticket and tell her to go to Hawaii.

What is the matter with the Junior Chamber of Commerce? I realize we have a good supply of lovely ladies in this city, but we don't have so many we can afford to ship the loveliest of all out of town.

Let Hawaii find its OWN possessor of charm, person- ality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelli- gence, and special ability.

I can see no reason why Victoria should start exporting lovely ladies, even in exchange for pineapples.

And, if the Junior Chamber of Commerce persists with this mad scheme to send Miss Victoria to Hawaii, the least Hawaii can do is send Miss Hawaii to Victoria.

Which—if it happens—will stop me from despairing of Victoria. (Honolulu papers, please copy.)

House Fire Believed Set By Youngsters at Play

Children playing in the base- ment of a deserted house at 1588 Fairfield were believed re- sponsible for starting a blaze which swept up outside walls Sunday at 7.23 p.m.

Damage was sustained by the basement, ground floor and part of the second storey when flames spread by way of broken windows in the building and up an outside staircase.

In the above photo taken at the height of the blaze by Ian McKinn, firemen are shown fighting flames from atop a ladder.

The house was about to be demolished to make way for construction of a new Safeway store.

Big Bonspiel Planned As Warmup for Brier

Victoria 'Curling Centre Of World' in March, '58

By DOUG PEDEN

Victoria will be the curling centre of the world in British Columbia's centennial year.

News that Victoria Curling Club had been awarded the world series of curling—the Macdonald's Brier Canadian playdowns—in March, 1958, was hailed by the city's curling enthusiasts and many businessmen as one of the biggest things to happen to Victoria in years.

Gerry Lauder, past-president of the B.C. Curling Association, said today: "It's something we have been after for a long time. The Brier should do a lot for curling in Victoria and British Columbia and should encourage more high school students to take up the game."

"The Brier is a big thing for Victoria. Well over 1,000 people will visit our city for the event."

Fred Madden, manager of the Victoria club, said: "We'll give them the biggest Brier they've ever had."

Decision of the Dominion Curling Association at King- ston, Ont., Sunday to accept the Victoria club's application to stage the 1958 Brier in Memorial Arena climaxed a long, care- fully planned campaign by city curlers.

Campaign Started 3 Years Ago

First move was made three years ago when the curling club advised the Dominion associa- tion of its desire to stage the Brier playdowns while B.C. was celebrating its centennial.

Official application was filed in February of last year and club officials have continued their campaign ever since.

Although negotiations had reached the stage where it was expected Victoria would be chosen for next year's Canadian final, the curling club sent a strong contingent to the Domi- nion association meeting at Kingston as a final argument.

Leading the delegation was Ernie Gordon, vice-president of the Victoria Curling Club. Also with the club contingent were Max Zabel, past president of the VCC and B.C. representa- tive on the Dominion associa- tion; Frank Burden, provincial delegate to the annual meeting, and club director Jim Tang.

Adding strength to the bid were Alderman Austin Curtis, who is representing Mayor Percy Scourrah at most of the functions of the 1957 Brier, which opened at Kingston today; Laurie Wallace, co-ordin- ator of the centennial celebra- tions for B.C., and Alderman T. F. Orr of Vancouver, a member of the centennial committee.

Although assured of support of the western provinces, the Victoria delegation mostly feared a move to award the 1958 bonspiel to Montreal, head- quarters of the sponsoring com- pany, which is also celebrating its centennial next year.

Youngest Club to Get Classic

Victoria Curling Club, now in its fifth year of operation, is believed to be the youngest club ever to be awarded the curling classic, one of Canada's three top annual sports events.

While staging of the Brier will mean a big boost to curling in the city, it will also be of great financial benefit to Victoria as a whole.

Hundreds of curlers and spec- tators normally visit the host city during each Canadian curl- ing final.

Inclusion of the pre-Brier bonspiel will increase the num- ber coming to Victoria in March, a slack period of tourist travel, and also extend the stay of many visitors to two weeks in- stead of the one-week holiday usually associated with the classic.

The city will get valuable publicity. National newspaper coverage is part and parcel of Brier playdowns and Canadians from coast to coast will learn more of Victoria through tele- vision and newsreel films.

$1,000 Damage As Car Hits Store at Sooke

A car which ran into Gibson's store at Sooke Sunday at 7 a.m. caused about $1,000 damage to the building and stock, a spokes- man for the management said today.

The whole length of the car was inside the building. It struck the oldest portion of the building, used at present for storage only.

RCMP's Victoria Ready for Sea In Three Weeks

The new RCMP patrol vessel, RCMP's Victoria, is expected to be ready for sea in about three weeks, it was reported today.

The ship had an engine break- down while on final trials early last month. The engine manufacturer is replacing the starboard engine.

The 92-foot ship is powered by twin diesels, has twin propellers. Her hull design has proven excel- lent during sea trials, an RCMP spokesman said.

On her first trials off Albert Head, the Victoria encountered 60-mile-an-hour winds and heavy icing conditions, rode them out perfectly.

The Victoria is now berthed at HMC Dockyard, which is to be her permanent base of operations on the west coast. The engine replace- ment will be carried out there.

A second new RCMP patrol vessel will be launched at McKay-Cor- mac Ltd. March 12. She is the 65-foot RCMP's Nanaimo.

Mrs. C. W. Harrison, wife of RCMP assistant commissioner Har- vison, will sponsor the ship.

What to Give Up for Lent?

Wonderful sermon at the Cathedral Sunday morning.

The Right Reverend R. S. Dean, recently consecrated as Lord Bishop of the Cariboo, laid it on the line re Lent.

"Do not perjure your im- mortal soul with sham sacri- fices," warned the soft-spoken, scholarly bishop, as the time of the 40 days — and nights draws nigh.

"Let's not fool ourselves," he said. "As the sales of cigarettes drop, the consumption of candy goes up."

Is this really self-denial? It's an age-old debate, always capable of sparking some lively controversy.

The gist of Bishop Dean's remarks: your Lenten "sacri- fices" have only been a suc- cess when, at the end of the 40-day period, you can take stock and find that you have

HUNGARIAN DINNER TUESDAY

Budapest Fighters To Entertain Party

All arrangements have been made for a dinner and enter- tainment program to be given at the Art Gallery Tuesday night by the city's new residents from Hungary trying to raise funds for the less fortunate of the new arrivals.

The Hungarians themselves arranged the program, will do all the cooking and serving, and will appear as entertainers. They look on the event as their introduction to the social life of Victoria.

There will be 100 guests at the dinner, to which Lieutenant Governor Frank M. Ross has lent his patronage, but it will actually be much more of an affair than just sitting down and eating.

Alfred Munster, a Budapest journalist who is rapidly re- covering from six years of starvation and brutality in a political prison, described it as follows — in Hungarian, of course, and translated by a friend.

"Those who for years strug- gled in slavery are today at peace in a society of free men. Their program will be expres- sive of their native culture, fea- turing folk dances, music, song and the world-famous Magyar kitchen. The artists are not professional entertainers but enthusiastic folk putting their hearts and souls into providing a pleasurable evening for the kind patrons of their party."

Many of those who will ap- pear on the program played a vital part in history, according to Mr. Munster.

"Leader of a choir to be heard, Joseph Rozsa, took part in the October 23 demonstration in front of the Brodi Sandor Street radio station to demand an end to oppression."

"A dancer, 12-year-old Katalin Bann, was orphaned in the Battle of Budapest by AVH bul- lets."

"Janos Molnar, a 16-year-old boy who will help serve refresh- ments, threw burning gasoline bottles at Russian tanks, was captured, and made good his escape."

"This is part of the cast. Their part on the program is in much lighter vein than the real life drama from which they re- cently bowed out. They sin- cerely hope that the lively Hun- garian music, dances, and song will convince the audience that once upon a time Hungary was one of the gayest nations in Europe."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—The custom of shaking hands is universal among people of the western world. Is its origin known?—Mrs. Q. L.

A. In the Middle Ages al- most all men wore swords. When one man approached another he usually extended his right hand in order to make it clear he had no in- tention of making an attack. It is explained the custom grew out of that gesture.

Washdays Are Made Easier When You Have a Wash Mitt

By PENNY SAVER

Rub-a-dub-dub your clothes in the tub... even in our mechanized age many clothes require hand washing, and sometimes a good rubbing is necessary. This can be pretty hard on your hands unless you use rubber gloves. Washboards have gone out, and you won't find too many of them in present-day washing rooms, but the principle of the corrugated surface for scrubbing is a good one that is worth keeping. A manufacturer has come up with rubber gloves that are wonderful for wash day, for they have corrugated palms. These washboard mitts are kind to your hands and nails, and gentle on your clothes, too. Washing time is cut down while clothes come clean in a whiz. You can choose from a host of gay colors... a pair costs 39 cents. That's not a very big price for pretty hands.

If you're expecting guests for a weekend, now might be just the time to make a purchase that will serve you time and time again. How many times, as you have ushered guests into the spare room, have you reminded yourself that you really should buy a luggage chair to make the room less cluttered. These folding racks should be a part of every guest room, and here's an opportunity to buy one at a greatly reduced price. Polished mahogany racks with double-strength woven straps will match dark wood bedroom suites. The price? Now $2.98. When not in use, the racks fold neatly and quickly

About Uninvited Callers at Dinner Time

Have you a solution to this problem which undoubtedly happens to other people, too? We invited two couples for dinner Saturday evening. I had prepared a very special menu fit for a gourmet, and it was one of those meals that should have been served right on time. About twenty minutes before serving, Louise time, two women friends rang our doorbell for a social call. We asked them to join us for dinner, but they declined as they had been invited elsewhere for dinner and were "just stopping to say hello on the way." Although our four guests were already present and although it was evident that I was in the midst of putting the finishing touches to the food in the kitchen, that "hello" lasted an hour and a half. The dinner was pretty good in spite of the delay, but needless to say, I was irked with the late and unexpected call.

Louise Davis answers:

Your callers were thoughtless, inconsiderate and ill-mannered. You went to the other extreme by being too hospitable. No one should think of making a social call at that time of day. The least they could have done was to phone you earlier to see if it would be convenient to stop at such an unorthodox hour. They could have been tactfully told that you had made other plans, but would they come again. This is a situation that can make a hostess' blood boil, then boil all the more that she is a hypocrite with her hospitality. When you discovered that your friends made no attempt to depart, you should have explained apologetically that you were serving a dinner that would spoil with delay, and would they mind if you all sat down to your meal anyway? By delaying your delicious dinner because of two thoughtless callers, you were inhospitable to the four guests whom you did invite.

Opera Star Mildred Miller Gives Her Tricks of Dieting

Today I want to give you a few of opera star Mildred Miller's tricks in dieting. She discovered these once when she found that she was 12 pounds overweight.

First, eating slowly and deliberately was a help. She said, "I don't know the reason for this but it is a fact that for me, at any rate, it is easier to diet if I eat slowly." The reason for this is because the blood sugar level is raised by food earlier in the meal when one eats slowly and appetite lessens as the blood sugar level rises. Therefore you are apt to eat less at a meal when you eat slowly.

Mildred by-passed salt in her food. She seasoned the family food but kept out an unseasoned portion for herself. In order to dispel the boredom of such food she rubbed steaks with garlic, stewed tomatoes with a dash of vinegar and enjoyed the tartness of grapefruit.

She also sensibly realized that a teaspoonful of sugar has only about 25 calories and at times of low blood gave her blood sugar level a boost with a cup of tea and a teaspoonful of the real McCoy. If you do not indulge in this habit more than three times a day it is a help and makes little difference in the rate of your weight loss.

Miss Miller also said: "I found that dieting calls for character and will power and both of these are at low ebb in the dark of night. I woke up one night and almost before I knew it found myself in the kitchen with the ice-box door open. Never mind how that episode worked out! After that I provided against such temptation by taking one of my cups of tea with the sugar and lemon just before going to sleep at night."

As for hunger between meals Mildred found that sheer bulk is the answer. She ate a stalk or so of celery, raw carrots or a quarter of a head of lettuce.

All of the ideas she discovered for herself are sound. Green salads help on a reducer's diet but these are not very appetizing without salad dressing or oils. I want to remind you that you can make delicious low calorie ones at home. Use tomato juice as the base and then add onion or garlic or lemon juice or all three, or any other flavoring you wish.

A Blue and White Wedding Theme Seen in Christ Church Cathedral

Six attendants gowned in blase blue taffeta formed the entourage for the wedding of Miss Maureen Elizabeth Moore and William Sylvanus Robbins, Jr., Saturday evening in Christ Church Cathedral.

Dean Brian Whitlow officiated at the ceremony which united in marriage the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. T. H. Moore, 312 Niagara Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Robbins, Sr., 1271 Downham Place.

A motif of blue and white was seen in the cathedral, where arrangements of blue and white flowers were placed on the altar, and white satin bows marked guest pews.

Graham Steed was organist and during signing of the register Reg Steofer sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white lace over taffeta fashioned with a ruffle of net set into the skirt, forming the lower part of the dress. The rounded neckline was fashioned with tiny pearls and rhinestones, repeated in the bodice. Long sleeves tapered to lily points at the wrists. Her fingertip veil was held to a headdress of white lace embroidered with mother of pearl sequins. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli centred with red rosebuds.

Matron of honor Mrs. R. Shandley, bridesmatron Mrs. N. Parker and bridesmaid Miss Beverly Vye wore matching princess style gowns in ballerina-length fashioned with high necklines. From the deep-set backs of the gowns billowed hip-length panels of matching material. Each wore white elbow-length gloves.

GOWNED ALIKE

Miss Janet Barnes, cousin of the bride, and Miss Pat Robbins, sister of the groom, were junior bridesmaids wearing similar gowns of the same blue material. All attendants wore white accessories and carried taffeta muffs trimmed with white feathered carnations matching the floral bandeaux in their hair. Dainty flower girl was the groom's youngest sister, Peggy Robbins, who wore a full-skirted frock trimmed with lace. She wore a white lace cap with pink rosebuds and carried a basket of white carnations and fern.

The groom had Kenneth Polson as best man, and ushers were Ray Campbell and Allan Moore.

At a reception held in Kings Road Hall, Mrs. Moore, wearing a navy blue dress with dusky rose hat and gloves and rosebud corsage, and Mrs. Robbins, in a navy blue and white dress with matching hat and rosebud corsage, assisted in receiving guests.

The bride's uncle, A. A. "Dinty" Moore proposed the toast to the bride's future happiness. A white lace cloth covered the bride's table, where a three-tier wedding cake was placed. The cake, set in a mist of pale blue tulle, was decorated by the groom's uncle, W. Harrison. Blue tapered candles in silver holders, and blue and white carnations completed the arrangement.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Vancouver and Seattle, the bride wore a beige satin brocade sheath dress and matching hat and a pale blue wool duster coat. Deep ivory shoes and purse and a corsage of red roses completed her outfit.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins will make their home at 1446 Gladstone Avenue.

Honored at Tea

Mr. A. deB McPhillips, candidate of Victoria Progressive Conservative Federal Association, was honored Saturday at a tea given by the association at "Molton Combe", the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lancelot deS. Duke on Newport Avenue.

Bernie Nicholls Says:

It's an ill wind that doesn't blow somebody some good.

I am a 1957 FORD 6-cylinder station wagon with only 1,700 miles on me. My owner paid over $3,500 on January 25 of this year. He was injured and had to trade down. Now Bernie wants to sacrifice me for only $2,995

I am a 1956 Buick Special Hardtop. Fully equipped with 5,300 miles on me. My owner needed a truck for his business, so to Bernie he was sure to sacrifice me for only $3,495

I am a 1956 METEOR Convertible with automatic transmission, radio and heater, tri-tone paint job with 1,700 miles on me. My former owner paid $4,200 for me and treated me with great care, but due to circumstances he had to dispose of me. Will someone give me a new home for $2,995

Printers Favor Strike Action At Nanaimo Paper

NANAIMO—Members of the Nanaimo Typographical Union (ITU) employed by The Daily Free Press voted unanimously Friday in favor of strike action if current contract demands are not met.

It is understood a 21-cent hourly wage boost is acceptable to both union and management, with jurisdiction over off-set work being the main point of contention.

The strike vote followed by only two days the official opening of the paper's new quarters by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Decision on the strike vote was communicated to international headquarters of the typographical union in Indianapolis, which will appoint a representative who will attempt to mediate the dispute.

The local cannot strike without permission of the international body.

According to B.C. labor laws, the union has 90 days after the taking of a strike vote in which to call a strike.

Toronto Telegram Sunday Issue Makes First Appearance March 17

TORONTO (CP)—John Bassett, Jr., chairman and publisher of The Telegram, today announced a Sunday morning edition will be distributed in Ontario starting March 17.

He said some of the details about the Sunday Telegram will be given later this week.

In his statement, on the front page of today's Evening Telegram, Mr. Bassett said he wished to dispel any idea that in publishing a Sunday newspaper The Telegram would be breaking the federal Lord's Day Act of 1906.

"Weak as the act may be," the suggestion that The Telegram is breaking the law and, by so doing, trying to force a change in the act, is not the case," he said.

"In listing the exceptions for work on Sunday, the act says 'any work of necessity or mercy.'"

HELD AS NECESSITY

"I hold the opinion most strongly that the publication of a Sunday morning newspaper by Canadians for Canadians is a 'work of necessity.' I have checked this opinion with responsible lawyers who agree."

"In an era dominated by atomic and hydrogen weapons, when the international picture, to say the least, is most uncertain, it was never more important for free men and women to have made available for them the news and facts of the world. It is a 'work of necessity' to gather and disseminate news seven days of the week, and not just six."

"The Lord's Day Act of 1906 was passed by the federal government, and it is quite inconceivable that this government would break its own law. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, wholly-owned by the government, broadcasts and televises news, as well as other programs, throughout the whole of Sunday. There is no specific exception made in the act for this activity and, therefore, the federal government must regard this as a 'work of necessity.'"

"The Telegram does not, for one minute, suggest that these activities are illegal but that they qualify under the extinct act as 'work of necessity.'"

Mr. Bassett said he hopes readers will enjoy The Sunday Telegram and feel it is a most worthwhile publication. He added:

"Most particularly do I hope that all those members of the clergy who now use radio and television on Sunday as an instrument to further God's work will feel free to use the columns of The Sunday Telegram for the same purpose."

Day in Jail, Fine of $100 For Money Theft

PORT ALBERNI—Leslie Swan, who pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of stealing $240 from William Patrick O'Brien, March 2, was sentenced to one day in jail and fined $100 and $6.50 costs.

His counsel, Robert Ohs, asked for the light jail sentence since the offence was Swan's first, and full restitution had been made. Prosecutor E. Dinsmore concurred.

ISLAND DIGEST

Anglers Optimistic On Big Qualicum Dam

QUALICUM BEACH — Prospects of a weir being built on Big Qualicum River to stabilize the summer flow of water to save the lives of salmon and trout fly appear to be good.

Qualicum District Fish and Game Association learned at its regular meeting.

The club has been in touch with the B.C. Game Commission about the project. Site of the weir, if built, would be at the outlet of the river from Horne Lake.

It was announced that a cash prize of $25, donated by a local merchant, will be awarded to the angler taking the largest salmon in the Qualicum district during the coming season. Boundaries will be set later.

New officers elected were Tom Michael, president; H. L. Batten, vice-president; Q. A. S. Taggart, secretary; Ray Hayward, treasurer; Dr. A. H. Wilkinson, A. T. Norman, J. J. Erdley and William Buss, executive members.

A vote of thanks was extended to H. R. Fullerton, who retired from the post of secretary after five years of service.

Duncan Mayor's Mother Dies; Rites Tuesday

DUNCAN — Funeral services will be held Tuesday from St. John's Anglican Church here for Mrs. Betty Ann Dobson, 76, mother of Mayor J. T. Dobson.

She died Friday evening in hospital at Cobble Hill.

Widow of William Dobson, former Duncan businessman who died in 1948, she had been in the hospital for two years.

Mrs. Dobson was born at Goodshawfold, Lancashire, and came to Duncan in 1912, the year the city was founded.

Surviving are four sons: Mayor Dobson, Will and George, all of Duncan, and Robert, Vancouver; 11 grandchildren, and a sister in England.

Water Users Meet Tuesday At Brentwood

BRENTWOOD — A meeting of "great urgency" has been called by Brentwood waterworks board for all water users of the Brentwood district, to be held in the Women's Institute Hall Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Announcement of the meeting was made by Victor C. Dawson, chairman of the waterworks board, who refused to elaborate on reasons for the meeting.

For more than a year the Brentwood board has been negotiating with the city regarding use of water from Elk Lake, and it is believed the question of price has come to a head.

The city took over the 12-inch main installed by the department of transport during the war to serve Patricia Bay airport, and which has served Brentwood since the war. A year ago it offered water to the Brentwood board for 10 cents per 1,000 gallons.

In recent months the board has been conducting tests in the Keating area adjacent to Mount Newton High School, presumably to determine the likelihood of using wells in the area as water sources.

"We don't want construction and expansion to get out of hand and create inflation, which would be disastrous at this time," Mr. Campney told Ald. Burns here Saturday.

"We saw an easing of credit restrictions by summer."

One ill-effect of the current restrictions, noted by Mr. Bird, was that many people are being driven to finance and loan companies where they are borrowing money at high interest rates.

It is not a pleasant task to have to turn loans down, he told Rotarians, "but under the circumstances, bank managers here and all across Canada have no alternative."

V.I. Banker Explains Credit Curbs

CHEMAINUS — Object of the tight-money policy instituted by the Bank of Canada is to curb the inflationary trend in wages and consumer prices, local bank manager Arthur Bird told the Rotary Club here.

Mr. Bird explained that all banks operate under a charter, and that the Bank of Canada influences rates and regulations. In this case, it had ordered the various banks to deposit certain amounts of money with it by a given date.

"In the case of banks like our own and others that normally pursue an aggressive loan policy, it meant we had to actually pressure some of our bigger customers to pay off their loans in order that we might make our deposit with the Bank of Canada," he said.

Direct result was that banks were unable to make any more loans.

"And this is precisely what the government and the Bank of Canada want," he said. Banks today are looking for people to save money and make deposits, he said.

One ill-effect of the current restrictions, noted by Mr. Bird, was that many people are being driven to finance and loan companies where they are borrowing money at high interest rates.

Israeli Pull-Out Order Issued

JERUSALEM (AP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion gave the final orders today directing withdrawal of remaining Israeli troops from Egypt. The decision brought bitter demonstrations in Jerusalem.

Hundreds of demonstrators marched through the streets demanding that the Ben-Gurion government resign.

"Stop the withdrawal," the crowd shouted.

Police clashed with the demonstrators, made several arrests and closed the streets to prevent the demonstrators, mostly students, from marching on the parliament buildings.

The demonstrations broke out as Maj.-Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israeli chief of staff, met Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force, to work out details of the UN takeover in the Gaza Strip and along the Gulf of Aqaba.

Six Drug Addict Convicts Break Out of B.C. Prison

Ottawa Moves On Federal Hospital Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal government, apparently reacting to Progressive Conservative charges that it is "bluffing" on its hospital insurance proposals, today initiated parliamentary action to get its scheme on the statute books.

However, federal spokesmen made clear that the scheme would not begin functioning with the mere passage of the enabling legislation. The government-fixed minimum of six provinces covering at least half the Canadian population would have to sign up first.

Ontario, for example, has stated it likely could not get its scheme operating before January, 1959. Federal officials said there would be no outlays of federal funds for the plan until all of the minimum six provinces started operating their schemes.

But the federal action, in asking parliament for enabling legislation, would make clear that the government is ready to do its share. It has offered to put up half the cost of standard hospital care and diagnostic services.

"ELECTION BLUFF"

George Hees (PC-Toronto Broadview) charged at Englehart, Ont., Wednesday that the Liberals had no intention of proceeding with their insurance scheme, that they were using it merely as "election bait."

A federal authority told a reporter: "You saw what Mr. Hees said last week? Well, this is our answer."

Health Minister Martin gave notice on the Commons order paper of a resolution which would precede the actual introduction of enabling legislation.

The federal health insurance proposal was made to the provinces in January, 1956.

Officials said they consider that five provinces have agreed to enter—Ontario, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland. They believe Nova Scotia and possibly New Brunswick may also come in soon.

The federal government would pay half the cost of the scheme, estimated to total about $400,000,000 if all the provinces enter. However, Ontario had indicated it would be difficult to get its plan ready to operate before January, 1959.

This central province is considered the keystone to the over-all plan and therefore it appears unlikely there would be any federal expenditures for scheme in the 1957-58 budget to be brought down by Finance Minister Harris.

ASSESSMENT UP

No Tax Boost For Victoria, Dowell Predicts

A $4,964,139 increase in Victoria property assessment totals announced at City Hall today indicates 1957 taxes will be held to the 1956 level, in the opinion of Acting-Mayor Arthur Dowell.

The increase, due to alterations and new constructions, mainly in the home-building field, means an added tax income this year of about $103,700 (based on the 1956 mill rate).

Gross city assessment now stands at $144,065,602. Acting-Mayor Dowell said: "The increased potential plus the recently-indicated increase in federal grants makes it very likely there will be no increase in the mill rate this year."

PGE Freight Derailed

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A rock slide at Mile 23, between North Vancouver and Squamish slammed into a 40-car PGE freight train derailling at least two cars at 5 a.m. today.

No one was injured. Officials said wrecking crews have been dispatched to the scene to clear the rock from the right of way. It is not known when the line will be reopened. Early reports gave no indication of the extent of damage to the southbound train.

The slide, believed caused by a combination of blasting crews working the area earlier and the vibration from the train, held up the scheduled passenger train due to leave North Vancouver at 7:45 a.m. today.

U.S. Airliner Crashes Soon After Passing City

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP)—Investigators sought an explanation today for the mystery of how an Alaska airliner carried five persons to death on an Olympic Peninsula mountainside in daylight and good weather.

The Alaska Airlines four-engine DC4 met disaster late Saturday afternoon only 18 minutes from its Seattle-Tacoma airport destination. It was on the home leg of a flight of more than 1,500 miles from Fairbanks.

The airliner normally would have passed over Victoria's environs shortly before it crashed. Several Victorians have reported hearing a plane flying fairly low over the city at the time. Scene of the crash is 50 miles south of Victoria.

Pilot, Stewardess Were Canadians

The crew members were Capt. Larry Currie of Seattle, the pilot; Lyle Edwards, Seattle, co-pilot; and Elizabeth Good of Roblin, Man., the stewardess.

Capt. Currie, about 40, was a former resident of St. Boniface, Man. He attended school there and later went to Alaska, where he learned to fly. He has since flown in various parts of the world. He married Helen Berg, also a former St. Boniface resident.

Miss Good, 25, attended high school in Roblin and after one year at normal school in Winnipeg she taught for two years near Portage la Prairie, Man. She went to the United States last October to train as a stewardess.

Normally, the plane would have been carrying a far greater number of passengers, but airline officials said Saturday flights from Alaska to Seattle generally are light.

Currie, a native of Portland, had been with the company about 10 years and was described by the airline and friends as "one of the best pilots in the business." He leaves a wife and four children. Edwards, who had been with the line about nine years, is survived by his widow and two children.

The plane crashed against a timbered slope after the pilot had radioed at 5:16 p.m. that he was flying "visual," which meant it was clear enough for him to fly without instruments.

Searchers found the charred wreckage Sunday at the 2,000-foot level 30 miles from Port Angeles. The bodies of the two passengers and three crew members were brought out.

Ironically, both the passengers were making quick trips to the States to visit their mothers—one because the mother is critically ill; the other for a birthday surprise.

Miss Constance Reppert, 24, was on a three-week leave for a surprise visit for her mother's birthday at Elkins, W. Va. Miss Reppert was a recreation director at army anti-aircraft sites in the Fairbanks area.

Leroy Kelley, 38, a carpenter at Ladd Air Force Base, was flying south because of the illness of his mother in Texas.

Paint Used To Cover Sawn Bars

BURNABY, B.C. (CP)—Six drug addicts used a paint brush and a pot of green paint to cloak their escape from Oakalla Prison Farm Sunday night.

The clever ruse gave them an hour's start over pursuing authorities from the prison, six miles from Vancouver.

Warden Hugh Christie said the prisoners—"all addicts"—sawed through a screened and barred door on the north side of the east wing earlier Sunday.

"The escape was so simple it's painful," the warden said.

One of them who had been painting the ground floor of the wing a deep green, smeared paint over the sawed bar and screen and put each piece back in place.

It was not learned how the prisoners got possession of a hack saw.

Sunday night, shortly after 7 o'clock, nearly 200 men were milling about on the ground floor after holding evening exercises, the warden said.

PROTECTED BY CROWD

Protected by the crowd, the six convicts removed the cut screen and sawed bar and squeezed through.

"Apparently they crossed the roof of the kitchen and dropped on to a road running by the east side of the prison," Warden Christie continued.

None of the guards was aware of what had happened until they checked the prisoners in their cells at 8 p.m.

An RCMP police dog traced the convicts a block south from the prison to Oakland Street in Burnaby and lost them.

STAKED OUT

Vancouver police staked out all known hangouts for drug addicts while RCMP in Burnaby and police in New Westminster combed their areas.

The escapees were identified as John Conway and Allen Bonner, both 20, serving sentences for breaking and entering; Frank Schlossen, 46, in Oakalla for possession of house-breaking tools; Gilbert Evans, 30, forger; Franklin Browning, 21, breaking and entering; and George Perovich, 26, on a charge arising from the drug act.

WELL PLANNED

Warden Christie said the escape was "well organized and seemed to have been planned well in advance." He said the men apparently had accomplices waiting for them in a car near the prison.

"A man as well known as Schlossen would have help outside," he commented. Schlossen was serving his 14th term in Oakalla.

SECOND BREAK

For Perovich, it was the second break in less than a year. He fled alone last May 29 but was recaptured in an apartment after the landlady reported his strange behavior to the police. Prison officials said three of the men were to have been released this year. Evans was due to be freed in November, Conway in August, and Bonner in October.

Perovich was to serve until April, 1958 and Browning until May, 1958.

HANNA DEPORTATION CASE OPENS IN VANCOUVER COURT

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Immigration Department today began its defence of a deportation order made against Christian George Hanna, a man without a country.

There is no precedent for the case of Hanna, 23. He stowed away aboard a Norwegian freighter in Beirut, Lebanon, in October, 1955, and was a virtual prisoner aboard the ship until last December.

Immigration Department officials refused Hanna permission to stay in Canada because he has no visa, passport, medical certificate or travel documents.

The department produced affidavits today saying that Hanna could possibly be admitted to the Lebanon if he were returned to Beirut. Hanna has said he doesn't want to go there.

Mollet Predicts Firmer NATO

European Economic Unity Will Expand North American Trade, Parliament Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Economic integration of Europe will result in expanded trade with North America and guarantee a solid North Atlantic Alliance, Premier Guy Mollet of France said today.

In an address to the Senate and Commons in joint session, the French premier declared:

"... within a few months a living and constantly evolving and expanding reality will have been created, the European economic community, the presence of which will profoundly modify the present elements."

"The perspective of commercial exchanges with a united Europe in full development will be radically different from those with our isolated countries, and, no doubt, will be greatly expanded."

'Symbol of Hope for All Men'

"So I beg you to have confidence in the dynamism of the new organizations and, that in action, the imperfections you criticize will be corrected. "Europe united is the only way for the countries of that continent to recover a true independence. It is the only way to guarantee a solid and enduring Atlantic alliance."

"The relations between the European and American continents can then develop on the basis of true equality."

"Beyond the Iron Curtain, the union of the European peoples will also be a symbol of hope for all men, living under oppression, who have not lost their will to liberty."

The statements were included in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Mollet also dealt with the Middle East situation and France's relations with Algeria. He said it is the duty of free nations to oppose the subversive actions of pan-Arabism and pan-Slavism in the past, a myth in whose name a people's independence was attacked.

Mr. Mollet said the assurance of European unification is one of the principal objectives of French policy.

"I have worked to found it upon a solid Franco-German entente and I have encountered a similar determination, at every point, in Chancellor Adenauer and in the German government."

"Today Franco-German rivalry no longer exists, rather a confident co-operation which permits the establishment of ever-closer ties."

Canada Praised for NATO Troops

He paid tribute to Canada for stationing part of its armed forces on the European continent.

If there had been thousands of British, American and Canadian soldiers in Europe in 1914 and in 1939, neither the Kaiser nor Hitler would have gone to war.

"Today, because of the physical presence of your soldiers, and the British and American soldiers, the Soviet Union cannot have the slightest doubt about the consequences to herself of an aggression."

On the Algerian question, Mr. Mollet said "it is not acceptable" that the 1,200,000 Algerians of European origin be oppressed or chased out of Algeria by the 8,000,000 Moslems, "no more than it is acceptable that they profit by temporary economic advantages to oppress the Moslems."

The key to the problem was to obtain full equality of economic and political rights for all inhabitants of Algeria. France has offered a ceasefire and free elections but the rebels had refused to accept these proposals.

On the Middle East, Mr. Mollet said withdrawal of Israel from the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba area does not mean an end to the problem. Presence of the United Nations Emergency Force made it possible to avoid a return to the situation before Israel attacked Egypt and it must be used to conclude a general peace settlement.

"A partial or provisional settlement in the Middle East will always be a bad solution. Our peoples will not accept that we allow the situation to deteriorate again as it did in the last eight years when, under the cover of an armistice, the disorders were perpetuated and a state of masked warfare was finally established while the resolutions of the United Nations were constantly violated."

U.K. Lowers Plane Fares For Emigrants

LONDON (CP)—The British government has decided to allow airlines to extend cheap emigrant fares by air to Canada and the United States for three months, it was announced Saturday.

The reduction now applies until June 30 and will be reintroduced in November. The scheme was started last autumn and was intended as a winter concession only, but the response induced requests for an extension.

Persons classed as emigrants pay about £60 ($168) for a single tourist fare instead of about £100. They can take extra baggage. It has been estimated that the airlines granting the reduced fare are carrying among them about 6,000 to 7,000 emigrants a month.

Your Canadian Red Cross is on the job serving for you whenever and wherever there is a need for help.

2,000 Sign Against Goldstream Cemetery

A 2,000-name petition opposing establishment of a cemetery along the route of a Greater Victoria water supply line will be presented to Health Minister Eric Martin.

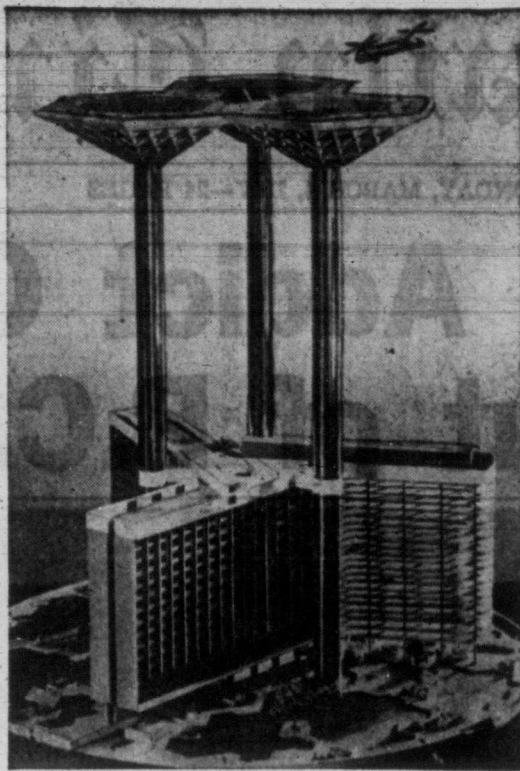

City lawyer William Moresby, chairman of the Greater Victoria Citizens' Committee, said he felt 20,000 names could be obtained in a public drive.

The petition opposes a decision announced last week by the Public Utilities Commission in favor of the Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Ltd. Approval was given for a garden-type cemetery on 30 acres of former farm lands near the junction of Goldstream Road and the Trans-Canada Highway.

The petition points out a water supply pipeline to the city and district passes through the land designated for cemetery use "and that there is likely to be seepage from the cemetery into our water supply."

LONDON'S MODERN LOOK—This is Skyport One, a sketch of an airport conceived by James Dartford. Although designed for the London of 2000 A.D., its creator believes it could be built today. It would be located in St. George's Circus, not far from Waterloo Station and would be 500 feet tall. Planes and helicopters would use the platform atop the three tall, glass-enclosed elevator shafts through which passengers and crew members would be carried from street level. Other features would be a sky-top restaurant with a far-reaching view of the city. The building below would house offices, hotels and garages. (NEA.)

'Feather-Bedding' Charged As CPR Diesel Probe Opens

OTTAWA (CP) — A royal commission inquiry today heard a charge and a denial that CPR

diesel firemen engage in "feather-bedding."

Feather-bedding is a term for the employment of men—at a union's insistence—who are not necessary to operation.

CPR counsel Ian D. Sinclair of Montreal used the term to describe the employment of firemen on road and yard diesel engines, the issue that precipitated a nine-day strike of firemen in January.

"That is grossly unfair," replied David Lewis of Toronto, counsel for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (BLF).

The exchange came as they delivered opening statements before a three-man royal commission headed by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The commission was set up by the federal government after it obtained a temporary settlement of the CPR stoppage. Recommendations of the commission are not binding on the disputants.

The union and CPR lawyers also clashed on commission procedure at the outset, starting with the question of whether the inquiry should move to other parts of Canada besides Ottawa.

The commission reserved decision on the point.

A tally on the city's taxicab cost was not immediately available.

WHITTON, England (CP) — A thief in this Middlesex village jacked up an automobile in a street and stole the front wheels.

PLYMOUTH (CP) — Fred Northcott, a baker who specializes in wedding cakes, was nonplussed when a customer walked into his shop and asked for a divorce cake.

Then, he had an inspiration. He made a cake, cut it down the middle, placed the halves back to back and inserted a plaque between them with the words: "Happy memories. Here's to freedom."

"The young ex-couple thought they ought not to part without some 'small farewell ceremony,'" Northcott said.

A special evensong service at St. Barnabas' Anglican Church Sunday at 1:30 p.m. will be broadcast over the CBC "National Church of the Air." The preacher will be Rev. Thomas Bailey. The service will be heard over CJVI from 1:30 to 2 p.m.

Terra Nova Completed By Late '58

Target date for completion of fitting out the destroyer escort Terra Nova at Victoria Machinery Depot has been set for the fall of 1958, Harold Husband, president, said today.

The electronics-packed DDE, one of the second-half group of 14 ordered by the RCN in the new-ship program now nearing completion, has been awaiting final approval by the Department of National Defence for the "lead" vessel in the group, built in Eastern Canada by Canadian Vickers.

A similar ship, the Fraser at Yarrow's Ltd., is a member of the first group, and will be ready for trials this summer.

Mr. Husband said work on the Terra Nova would go ahead as fast as required material is secured.

1,100 PEAK

"It is likely our present work force will build up to a peak of close to 1,100 at times while we are finishing the Terra Nova," he said.

He pointed out the need of new-ship orders to maintain a full working force. At present about 850 men are on the VMD payroll.

No new navy orders are yet in sight to take up the slack when the present program is finished.

"We are out after industrial work to keep busy," he said. "We are expanding industrial fabrication facilities. But nothing will take the place of ship-building."

$2,000 Program Of Scholarships Set by Shipyard

A new $2,000 annual scholarship program is being started at University of British Columbia this year by Yarrow's Ltd. and Burrard Drydock Co. Ltd., UBC president Dr. Norman MacKenzie, announced today.

A $1,000 scholarship of $250 per year for four years will be offered to sons, daughters and legal dependents of each of the two companies each year.

Recipients of the Yarrow's award may attend either UBC or Victoria College for the first two years of university study.

The awards are open to students completing high school and planning to enter any university course, and will be based on academic, personal and leadership qualities.

U.S. ADMIRAL'S VIEWPOINT

RN's Mediterranean Fleet Labelled 'Support Force'

LONDON (Reuters) — A newspaper today quotes Vice-Admiral Charles L. Brown, commander of the United States Sixth Fleet, as saying the British Navy henceforth will be useful only as a support force in its traditional stamping ground of the Mediterranean.

In a front-page report from the American flagship Salem, the News Chronicle quotes Brown as saying: "The Sixth Fleet packs more power and possesses a greater flexibility, versatility and instant readiness than any other mobile force in the area and very soon it will be greatly strengthened."

"While we carry out the attacking role, should it be necessary, it seems to me that the Royal Navy would be employed on the complementary role of keeping open our supply and communication lines."

Commenting editorially on the report, the News Chronicle says news of the Sixth Fleet's "astounding power" is bound to be received with mixed feelings in Britain.

It is clear from the report, it says, that "the control we once exercised in this area is a thing of the past."

ROCKET MOON FLIGHT DUE IN FIVE YEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brig. Gen. H. F. (Frank) Gregory, director of the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, said today the U.S. Air Force may shoot a rocket around the moon within five years.

Gregory confirmed an article in Missiles and Rockets magazine which quoted him as saying:

"Several moon rocket study contracts are in the works, and it is imperative that we carry out these scientific research projects to stay ahead of the Russians."

"When I say that we will have a moon rocket in less than five years, it is a conservative estimate."

CYCLING CHAMP—AGE 3 1/2

100 Blocks---100 Minutes

PORTLAND (AP) — David Draper, 3 1/2 years old and a likely cycling champion, finally was crowned Sunday. But not stopped.

The family began searching for him Sunday, only minutes after he peddled away on his tricycle.

Later a policeman reported a small figure pumping vigorously away up a street part-way across town. But it was so far away the family concluded it could not be David. The search continued at a nearby park.

It was 100 minutes and 100 blocks away before a patrolman finally nabbed David, still peddling.

To the housego they went, but the family was out searching and it was two hours before the police could notify them of David's safety.

Meanwhile, David got his tricycle and peddled around in the police station.

"David Crockett," he said when asked his name. "You can call me Davey," he added, rounding another corner.

He still was going at it when father Frank Draper Jr. finally showed up to take him home.

Calendar of Flowers

BEFORE I end these columns to the office, I have to mark them with the date on which they will appear. And, because I never know the date offhand, I usually jump up to look at my favorite calendar on the kitchen wall.

It's one of alpine and garden flowers with a different picture for every month. Each year, I'm given a new one for Christmas. The surprise has long since disappeared, but the delight in them still remains!

They're printed in Switzerland, and the one for 1957 is fairly typical. January's picture is of edelweiss—a study in white and soft grey and green. February is a scarlet geranium with two full-blown flowers and a bud that's almost ready to burst into bloom. In March, we'll have the blue and mauve of gentian and long-spurred violet.

And so it goes through the year—the gold of mountain auricula, the contrasting colors of stemless gentian and striped mezerion. There's spring anemone, so like that one could almost pluck it from the page.

There's a lovely arrangement of cornflowers with spikes of some golden kind of grass or grain. Silver thistle makes a soft quiet picture for December.

I love this calendar, but I often wish that I could find one made up of our native wild flowers.

I know the cost of printing it would be terrific and that, as yet, we haven't the population to make it a profitable venture.

But perhaps, in 50 years from now we'll manage it.

I'll be in my grave by then, but I know the flowers I hope posterity will choose.

Ruth

I hope the calendar will have a picture of spring gold, growing flat and close to the bright green grass as it does in very early spring.

I hope that it will have spikes of satin flower with the long thin leaves, that look almost like strong blades of grass. I'd like it to show the slender little stalk that holds the reddish-purple flower. It must show the cradled bud when it is just a mysterious swelling on the spike of green.

It must have a shooting star rising brightly from its low, smooth leaves.

I'd like it to include one picture of black moist earth and grey alder trunk with bright skunk cabbage still unfurled.

I'd like a tiger lily bright and growing tall in the early summer bush. And chocolate lily, mottled brown and green. And easter lily of spotted leaf and pinkish stem with young buds pointing upwards to the sky.

I'd like wild roses blooming in a hedge that hasn't been bulldozed down in the name of progress.

The brilliant bracts of Indian paintbrush, the tiny pink bells of twin-flower, the purity of queen's cup with its leaves of shiny green, the familiar trillium of the woods—all these would make pictures for the calendar.

The trouble is that I'm no botanist. Neither can I paint or draw.

But if I possessed these gifts, I'd have myself a wonderful time making my own wild-flower calendar with a beautiful picture for every month of the year.

Think of the smug occasions when I could leave the silly household tasks, and sally forth, saying to my menfolk, "Sorry, dears, but I am working on my calendar!" Wouldn't it be Heaven?

Or are my values terribly mixed up!

Crocuses Ultra Heat-Conscious

It seems to me that the pleasure of a garden is increased as much by observation as it is by cultural skill.

The early crocus species, which are now in their full beauty, are the more interesting as we watch them daily.

Scientists tell us that crocus blooms respond to as little as one-half degree change in temperature.

This no doubt explains why these true harbingers of spring cannot successfully be grown in pots for indoor decoration. The heat of the average dwelling affords no chance for rest periods.

The place for these delightful little species crocus is in the garden, where they will thrive and increase, affording us years of pleasure through observation with a minimum of culture.

Some varieties of these had their buds up during a warm spell in January, but were temporarily discouraged by freezing weather. They commenced flowering before the snowfall 10 days ago, and emerged from it to delight us during the subsequent warm days.

It is a source of interest to note how rapidly these small blossoms respond to the change of temperature so prevalent in our early springs. In sunning the blooms are wide open, the orange anthers of the variety E. A. Bowles showing as a lovely contrast to the butter yellow of the petals, and in C. Fleischeri the anthers are orange red against the white petals.

With the passing of a cloud over the sun, every crocus closes. Then we may enjoy the dark bronze exterior of the golden variety Zwanenburg Broinze, and the violet shading on the outside of the silvery petals of C. biflorus argenteus.

The earliest of all the earliest with us is C. ancyrensis, which by this process of closing as the sun is hidden, actually remains in bloom for several weeks.

Rock Around a Million

LONDON—Selling a million gramophone records of a number is no rarity in the U.S. any more. But in Britain, with only a third of the population, it's a more difficult trick to pull off. In fact it has just been achieved for the first time. The disc that did it: Bill Haley's "Rock Around the Clock."

Previous best was Anton Karas' zither in action on The Harry Lime Theme, which sold 900,000 pressings not long after the war. Third best seller has been Winifred Atwill's "Let's Have a Party," with 800,000.

Don't know how familiar you are with pianist Atwill, but the English love her honky-tonk piano giving out with old favorites to which they can have a sing-song in a pub or at a Butlin's camp.

To consolidate his top ranking in the disc world, Bill Haley brings his Comets over next week to tour Britain through February.

LITTLE THINGS mean a lot—when it comes to tracking down a criminal. You just can't be too careful about small details if you are undertaking a career of crime.

Take the example of this fellow who blew up a safe. He had taken his gelignite to the scene of the crime wrapped in an old newspaper which he left behind when he made his getaway. The publisher was able to say from code marks on the paper which press had printed it and to what area it had been distributed. (All newspapers have their private printing symbols for each edition.)

So the police knew the locality where

Reyburn

By WALLACE REYBURN

the paper had been bought. Also in pencil on the corner of the front page was number 182, put there by the news-agent who had delivered it. For England, 182 is a high street number. Check the few streets in the area that have a No. 182—and bingo!

POSTAGE STAMPS have been very much in the news since that dealer in Dartmouth got hold of a sheet of tuppenny-hapennies without perforations and found they were worth about $30,000. They were slipped to him by a girl who worked in the post office; she noticed the flaw, bought them herself and sold them to the dealer.

Luckily for her, she hasn't been fired despite the fact that she broke a post office regulation that all clerks must look out for imperfections and withdraw them from sale. Since then post office employees have become thoroughly bored by what has become a hackneyed gag from customers—"Two tuppenny-hapennies, please. Without perforations. Ha ha!"

But now the stamp talk has switched to Nasser's new Liberation of Port Said issue. It's a whopper (two-and-a-half by an inch) in rotogravure on sepia paper depicting the Egyptians setting about the flinging out of the invaders. The equivalent of a tuppenny-hapenny (perforated), it is selling at stamp shops here for seven times its face value.

Nasser is flooding the Middle East with this propaganda stamp and gets them into England indirectly through dealers on the continent. There's agitation for the treasury, which controls Britain's freeze on Egyptian sterling, to step in and stop Nasser earning pounds with anti-British propaganda.

SYNOPSIS—An outbreak of Arctic air has brought clear skies and colder temperatures to most of the interior. However, a six-inch fall of snow has been reported in the southern Kootenays and some furries will continue in that area till this afternoon.

Only a small amount of the cooler air will reach coastal districts to give a few degrees of frost in most districts overnight. A Pacific disturbance approaching the coast should pass mainly to the south of B.C. giving only variable cloud layers to the southern province Tuesday.

WOMEN'S CURLING

City Quartets Split in 'Spiel'

Victoria rinks divided honors with visiting foursomes when competition in the Victoria Curling Club's annual ladies' bonspiel ended Sunday night.

Three rinks carried unbeaten records into Sunday morning's quarter-finals, but only Betty Stubbs of Victoria reached the semis of both primary events.

Flora, Martin of the host club lost her first game in the quarter-finals of the Eaton's event while Mary Porter of Vancouver suffered her first loss in the quarters of the Scourah Trophy primary.

However, Mrs. Porter advanced into the final round of the Eaton's primary before her bid for a trophy was ended by another Vancouverite, Joy McLellan, who took the event with a 14-6 victory.

Miss McLellan, who was curling with Miss C. Smith, Miss J. Cruikshanks and Miss D. Eglington, advanced into the final by defeating Mrs. Stubbs.

Mrs. Porter ousted Mrs. D. Noble, Vancouver, in the semis. Doris Fraser, skipping a rink entered by Mrs. E. Manchester, gave Victoria a win in the Scourah event, leading her rink to a 12-8 victory over Vancouver's Elsie McKenzie in the final.

Mrs. Fraser, skipping for Elsie Hamilton, third, Dagmar Russell, second, and E. Harvey, lead, sidelined Mrs. Martin in the Scourah semis, while Mrs. McKenzie defeated Mrs. Stubbs.

Closest game in the finals came in the Hudson's Bay secondary event, in which Ruby Cooper of Victoria tripped Edith Sheekey of Vancouver, 13-10.

Other members of the Cooper foursome, which bested Mary Gibson, West Vancouver, in the semifinal round, were Harriett McCaw, Laura Hagglund and Mabel Bissenden.

Mrs. Cooper's victim in the semis was the Victoria rink skipped by Ann Langley.

Mrs. Gibson, who was aided by Mrs. M. Acheson, Mrs. D. Mauro and Mrs. M. Webster, took first place in the Sears event, the other secondary competition, when Miss McLellan defaulted the final game.

Mrs. Gibson had reached the Sears final with a win over Nanaimo's Helen Wilson, while Miss McLellan ousted Mrs. M. McGillivray in the semis.

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1957

MONTE ROBERTS

There are times when I despair of Victoria. And this is one of them.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of the City of Victoria has announced it will hold a "Miss Victoria" contest in conjunction with the annual Victoria Industrial and Agri- cultural Exhibition (May 6 to 11, get your exhibit reserva- tions in early, free plug).

The winning "Miss Victoria," according to the contest rules, will be judged on the basis of charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelligence, special ability, and public choice by ballot.

With which I cannot quarrel. I am heartily in favor of choosing Miss Victoria on the basis of charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelligence, special ability, and public choice by ballot.

I am sure that the Junior Chamber of Commerce will thus discover a Miss Victoria of whom Victoria can well be proud.

But this is where I begin to despair of Victoria: Once this lady of charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelligence, special ability (who is also the people's choice), has been selected, do you know what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to do with her?

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to send her to Hawaii, that's what the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to do with her.

After going to all the trouble of discovering the Miss in Victoria with the most charm, personality, deportment, beauty of face and figure—I can't go on, this is killing me—the Junior Chamber of Commerce is going to present her with a travel ticket and tell her to go to Hawaii.

What is the matter with the Junior Chamber of Com- merce? I realize we have a good supply of lovely ladies in this city, but we don't have so many we can afford to ship the loveliest of all out of town.

Let Hawaii find it's OWN possessor of charm, person- ality, deportment, beauty of face and figure, general intelli- gence, and special ability.

I can see no reason why Victoria should start exporting lovely ladies, even in exchange for pineapples. And, if the Junior Chamber of Commerce persists with this mad scheme to send Miss Victoria to Hawaii, the least Hawaii can do is send Miss Hawaii to Victoria.

Which—if it happens—will stop me from despairing of Victoria. (Honolulu papers, please copy.)

House Fire Believed Set By Youngsters at Play

Children playing in the base- ment of a deserted house at 1588 Fairfield were believed re- sponsible for starting a blaze which swept up outside walls Sunday at 7.23 p.m.

Damage was sustained by the basement, ground floor and part of the second storey when flames spread by way of broken windows in the building and up an outside staircase.

In the above photo taken at the height of the blaze by Ian McKin, firemen are shown fighting flames from atop a ladder.

The house was about to be demolished to make way for construction of a new Safeway store.

Frostbite Races Dominated By Vancouver

Royal Vancouver Yacht Club winter sailors showed their heels to Royal Victoria and West Vancouver clubs Saturday in the annual frostbite team races.

A return series will be held with the Vancouver club as host March 16 and 17.

In the races sailed at Cadboro Bay, Royal Victoria started well with first race. But the main- land club came back to sweep first, second and third in each of the other two races for a decisive point total win.

Esquimalt squadron of the Royal Canadian Sailing Association defeated the HMCS Discovery (Vancouver) squadron also on Saturday, racing in service dinghies.

Big Bonspiel Planned As Warmup for Brier

Victoria 'Curling Centre Of World' in March, '58

By DOUG PEDEN

Victoria will be the curling centre of the world in British Columbia's centennial year.

News that Victoria Curling Club had been awarded the world series of curling—the Macdonald's Brier Canadian playdowns—in March, 1958, was hailed by the city's curling enthusiasts and many businessmen as one of the biggest things to happen to Victoria in years.

Gerry Lauder, past-president of the B.C. Curling Association, said today: "It's something we have been after for a long time. The Brier should do a lot for curling in Victoria and British Columbia and should encourage more high school students to take up the game."

"The Brier is a big thing for Victoria. Well over 1,000 people will visit our city for the event."

Campaign Started 3 Years Ago

First move was made three years ago when the curling club advised the Dominion association of its desire to stage the Brier playdowns while B.C. was celebrating its centennial.

Official application was filed in February of last year and club officials have continued their campaign ever since.

Although negotiations had reached the stage where it was expected Victoria would be chosen for next year's Canadian final, the curling club sent a strong contingent to the Domi- nion association meeting at Kingston as a final argument.

Leading the delegation was Ernie Gordon, vice-president of the Victoria Curling Club. Also with the club contingent were Max Zabel, past president of the VCC and B.C. representa- tive on the Dominion associa- tion; Frank Burden, provincial delegate to the annual meeting, and club director Jim Tang.

Adding strength to the bid were Alderman Austin Curtis, who is representing Mayor Percy Scurrell at most of the functions of the 1957 Brier, which opened at Kingston today; Laurie Wallace, co-ordin- ator of the centennial celebra- tions for B.C., and Alderman T. F. Orr of Vancouver, a mem- ber of the centennial committee.

Although assured of support of the western provinces, the Victoria delegation mostly feared a move to award the 1958 bonspiel to Montreal, head- quarters of the sponsoring com- pany, which is also celebrating its centennial next year.

Youngest Club to Get Classic

Victoria Curling Club, now in its fifth year of operation, is believed to be the youngest club ever to be awarded the curling classic, one of Canada's three top annual sports events.

$1,000 Damage As Car Hits Store at Sooke

A car which ran into Gibson's store at Sooke Sunday at 7 a.m. caused about $1,000 damage to the building and stock, a spokes- man for the management said today.

No one was injured. Occu- pants were said to be three young men visiting in the dis- trict, but their names were not available.

The whole length of the car was inside the building. It struck the oldest portion of the building, used at present for storage only.

RCMP Victoria Ready for Sea In Three Weeks

The new RCMP patrol vessel, RCMP Victoria, is expected to be ready for sea in about three weeks, it was reported today.

The ship had an engine break- down while on final trials early last month. The engine manufacturer is replacing the starboard engine.

The 92-foot ship is powered by twin diesels, has twin propellers. Her hull design has proven excel- lent during sea trials, an RCMP spokesman said.

On her first trials off Albert Head, the Victoria encountered 50-mile-an-hour winds and heavy icing conditions, rode them out perfectly.

The Victoria is now berthed at HMC Dockyard, which is to be her permanent base of operations on the west coast. The engine replace- ment will be carried out there.

A second new RCMP patrol vessel will be launched at McKay-Cor- rack Ltd. March 12. She is the 65-foot RCMP Victoria.

Mrs. C. W. Harvison, wife of RCMP assistant commissioner Har- vison, will sponsor the ship.

TRAFFIC FINES

James A. E. Smith, 79 Beaver Creek Road, Alberni, $40 or seven days for driving while under suspension, $25 or five days for using a driver's licence belonging to another person, and $25 or five days for having no licence plates.

James Thomas Fracy, 1472 Derby, $25 for violating driver's licence restriction.

Marshall Gill Smith, HMCS Naden, $25 for violating driver's licence restriction.

Victor Joseph, East Saanich Reserve, $25 for having no front plate and $10 for having an unlighted plate.

Fred Madden, manager of the Victoria club, said: "We'll give them the biggest Brier they've ever had."

Decision of the Dominion Curling Association at King- ston, Ont., Sunday to accept the Victoria club's application to stage the 1958 Brier in Memorial Arena climaxed a long, care- fully planned campaign by city curlers.

WON HIS FIGHT

Black-eyed and battered, 2½-year-old Michael Braden, 140 Menzies, is recovering in St. Joseph's Hos- pital after he was rescued from near-drowning by a pair of alert eight-year-old Wolf Cubs. He wandered from his James Bay home Friday afternoon, was found face-down in a mud-hole at rear of the home of Randy Fry, 118 Menzies, one of the heroes, who was aided in saving the boy by Charles Ball, 76 Men- zies. It is thought the tot fell in the puddle, injuring himself on an old bicycle frame lying there. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

HUNGARIAN DINNER TUESDAY

Budapest Fighters To Entertain Party

All arrangements have been made for a dinner and enter- tainment program to be given at the Art Gallery Tuesday night by the city's new residents from Hungary trying to raise funds for the less fortunate of the new arrivals.

The Hungarians, themselves arranged the program, will do all the cooking and serving, and will appear as entertainers. They look on the event as their introduction to the social life of Victoria.

There will be 100 guests at the dinner, to which Lieutenant- Governor Frank M. Ross has lent his patronage, but it will actually be much more of an affair than just sitting down and eating.

Alfred Munster, a Budapest journalist who is rapidly re- covering from six years of starvation and brutality in a political prison, described it as follows — in Hungarian, of course, and translated by a friend:

"Those who for years strug- gled in slavery are today at peace in a society of free men. Their program will be expres- sive of their native culture fea- turing folk dances, music, song and the world-famous Magyar kitchen. The artists are not professional entertainers but enthusiastic folk putting their hearts and souls into providing a pleasurable evening for the kind patrons of their party."

Many of those who will ap- pear on the program played a vital part in history, according to Mr. Munster.

"Leader of a choir to be heard, Joseph Rozsa, took part in the October 23 demonstration in front of the Brodi Sandor Street radio station to demand an end to oppression."

"A dancer, 12-year-old Kata- lin Bann, was orphaned in the Battle of Budapest by AVH bul- lets."

"Janos Molnar, a 16-year-old boy who will help serve refresh- ments, threw burning gasoline bottles at Russian tanks, was captured, and made good his escape."

"This is part of the cast. Their part on the program is in much lighter vein than the real life drama from which they re- cently bowed out. They sin- cerely hope that the lively Hun- garian music, dances, and song will convince the audience that once upon a time Hungary was one of the gayest nations in Europe."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—The custom of shaking hands is universal among people of the western world. Is its origin known?—Mrs. O. L. A. In the Middle Ages al- most all men wore swords. When one man approached another he usually extended his right hand in order to make it clear he had no in- tention of making an attack. It is explained the custom grew out of that gesture.

What to Give Up for Lent?

Wonderful sermon at the Cathedral Sunday morning. The Right Reverend R. S. Dean, recently consecrated here as Lord Bishop of the Cariboo, laid it on the line re- Lent.

"Do not perjure your im- mortal soul with sham sacri- fices," warned the soft-spoken, scholarly bishop, as the time of the 40 days and nights draws nigh.

"Let's not fool ourselves," he said. "As the sales of cigarettes drop, the consumption of candy goes up."

Is this really self-denial? It's an age-old debate, always capable of sparking some lively controversy.

The gist of Bishop Dean's remarks: your Lenten "sacri- fices" have only been a suc- cess when, at the end of the 40-day period, you can take stock and find that you have come a little closer to the divine concept of life.

I know a man who gave up liquor and cigars last year, and ended up very confused. He was so self-righteous, and boasted about his "sacrifices" so often, that he found him- self guilty of the sin of pride.

Another stylish-stout fellow of my acquaintance decided to give up desserts. Under pressure, he conceded that he did this because it made him look better. Ergo, he was guilty of the serious sin of vanity.

Another friend decided to give up all entertainments for Lent. This, he found, put money in his pocket and he didn't give it back to the church. He ended up with a flaming guilt complex.

The other night I met a woman who had a charming resolution.

This year, she said, she was going to "give up gossip" for Lent.

On the face of it, this may seem trivial. But the more you think of it, the loftier it becomes. I am inclined to be- lieve it is a completely noble resolve.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if all women—and all men, for that matter—gave up gos- sip for Lent?

Think of all the half-truths, the little white lies, the un- confirmed rumors, the guilty whispers, which would be left unspoken. The purifying ef- fect of their absence would be shattering.

And, as a corollary, there would be the inclination to seek out the kindly word, the magnanimous judgment, the tolerant assessment, which a few people—all too few—seem to enunciate instinctively.

The woman put it this way: "I want to choke off all those things I feel sorry for after I've said them."

This seems to me a tremen- dous idea. The fact that it will also stop all columnists for writing for 40 days is some- thing the public will have to suffer in silence. That will be their Lenten sacrifice.

Washdays Are Made Easier When You Have a Wash Mitt

By PENNY SAVER

Rub-a-dub-dub your clothes in the tub ... even in our mechanized age many clothes require hand washing, and sometimes a good rubbing is necessary. This can be pretty hard on your hands unless you use rubber gloves. Washboards have gone out, and you won't find too many of them in present-day washing rooms, but the principle of the corrugated surface for scrubbing is a good one that is worth keeping. A manufacturer has come up with rubber gloves that are wonderful for wash day, for they have corrugated palms. These washboard mitts are kind to your hands and nails, and gentle on your clothes, too. Washing time is cut down while clothes come clean in a whiz. You can choose from a host of gay colors ... a pair costs 39 cents. That's not a very big price for pretty hands.

If you're expecting guests for a weekend, now might be just the time to make a purchase that will serve you time and time again. How many times as you have ushered guests into the spare room, have you reminded yourself that you really should buy a luggage chair to make the room less cluttered. These folding racks should be a part of every guest room, and here's an opportunity to buy one at a greatly reduced price. Polished mahogany racks with double-strength woven straps will match dark wood bedroom suites. The price? Now $2.98. When not in use, the racks fold neatly and quickly and can be stored compactly in any wardrobe.

I don't think there's anything that gives me quite the thrill a little bunch of violets does. So simple and lovely, the dainty flowers can be bought in many spots in Victoria. My only regret, though, is that day by day the price is going up. They used to be 20 to 25 cents a bunch, and now are 50 cents.

Nevertheless, they add a lovely touch of springtime to even the most ordinary outfit. Many florists display the fragrant little flowers in sidewalk displays. Raffia and straw mats for your dinner table come in bright, appealing colors that blend with your dining room decor. Just shake them off, and wipe with a dampened cloth and they're ready to put away after the meal. For casual living these place mats fill the needs of many families. You can choose from several shapes, and all are priced from 50c to 85c each.

On Etiquette

About Uninvited Callers at Dinnertime:

Have you a solution to this problem which undoubtedly happens to other people, too? We invited two couples for dinner Saturday evening. I had prepared a very special menu fit for a gourmet, and it was one of those meals that should have been served right on time. About twenty minutes before serving time, two women friends rang our doorbell for a social call. We asked them to join us for dinner, but they declined as they had been invited elsewhere for dinner and were "just stopping to say hello on the way."

Although our four guests were already present and although it was evident that I was in the midst of putting the finishing touches to the food in the kitchen, that "hello" lasted an hour and a half. The dinner was pretty good in spite of the delay, but needless to say, I was irked with the late and unexpected call.

Louise Davis answers: Your callers were thoughtless, inconsiderate and ill-mannered. You went to the other extreme by being too hospitable. No one should think of making a social call at that time of day.

The least they could have done was to phone you earlier to see if it would be convenient to stop at such an unorthodox hour. They could have been tactfully told that you had made other plans, but would they come again. This is a situation that can make a hostess' blood boil, then boil all the more that she is a hypocrite with her hospitality. When you discovered that your friends made no attempt to depart, you should have explained apologetically that you were serving a dinner that would spoil with delay, and would they mind if you all sat down to your meal anyway? By delaying your delicious dinner because of two thoughtless callers, you were inhospitable to the four guests whom you did invite.

When you discovered that your friends made no attempt to depart, you should have explained apologetically that you were serving a dinner that would spoil with delay, and would they mind if you all sat down to your meal anyway? By delaying your delicious dinner because of two thoughtless callers, you were inhospitable to the four guests whom you did invite.

Louise Davis answers: Your callers were thoughtless, inconsiderate and ill-mannered. You went to the other extreme by being too hospitable. No one should think of making a social call at that time of day.

The least they could have done was to phone you earlier to see if it would be convenient to stop at such an unorthodox hour. They could have been tactfully told that you had made other plans, but would they come again. This is a situation that can make a hostess' blood boil, then boil all the more that she is a hypocrite with her hospitality. WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Opera Star Mildred Miller Gives Her Tricks of Dieting

Today I want to give you a few tricks in dieting. She discovered these once when she found that she was 12 pounds overweight.

First, eating slowly and deliberately was a help. She said, "I don't know the reason for this but it is a fact that for me, at any rate, it is easier to diet if I eat slowly."

The reason for this is because the blood sugar level is raised by food earlier in the meal when one eats slowly and appetite lessens as the blood sugar level rises. Therefore you are apt to eat less at a meal when you eat slowly.

Mildred-by-passed salt in her food. She seasoned the family food but kept out an unseasoned portion for herself. In order to dispel the boredom of such food she rubbed steaks with garlic, stewed tomatoes with a dash of vinegar and enjoyed the tartness of grapefruit.

She also sensibly realized that a teaspoonful of sugar has only about 25 calories and hit times of lowebb gave her blood sugar level a boost with a cup of tea and a teaspoonful of the real McCoy. If you do not indulge in this habit more than three times a day it is a help and makes little difference in the rate of your weight loss.

Miss Miller also said, "I found that dieting calls for character and will power and both of these are at low ebb in the dark of night. I woke up one night and almost before I knew it found myself in the kitchen with the ice-box door open. Never mind how that episode worked out! After that I provided against such temptation by taking one of my cups of tea with the sugar and lemon just before going to sleep at night."

As for hunger between meals Mildred found that sheer bulk is the answer. She ate a stalk or so of celery, raw carrots or a quarter of a head of lettuce.

All of the ideas she discovered for herself are sound. Green salads help on a reducer's diet but these are not very appetizing without salad dressing or oils. I want to remind you that you can make delicious low calorie ones at home. Use tomato juice as the base and then add onion or garlic or lemon juice or all three, or any other flavoring you wish.

If you would like to have my calorie chart send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 36 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mollet Predicts Firmer NATO

European Economic Unity Will Expand North American Trade, Parliament Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Economic integration of Europe will result in expanded trade with North America and guarantee a solid North Atlantic Alliance, Premier Guy Mollet of France said today.

In an address to the Senate and Commons in joint session, the French premier declared:

"... within a few months a living and constantly evolving and expanding reality will have been created, the European economic community, the presence of which will profoundly modify the present elements."

"The perspective of commercial exchanges with a united Europe in full development will be radically different from those with our isolated countries, and, no doubt, will be greatly expanded."

'Symbol of Hope for All Men'

"So I beg you to have confidence in the dynamism of the new organizations, and that in action, the imperfections you criticize will be corrected."

"Europe united is the only way for the countries of that continent to recover a true independence. It is the only way to guarantee a solid and enduring Atlantic alliance."

"The relations between the European and American continents can then develop on the basis of true equality."

"Beyond the Iron Curtain, the union of the European peoples will also be a symbol of hope for all men, living under oppression, who have not lost their will to liberty."

The statements were included in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Mollet also dealt with

Canada Praised for NATO Troops

He paid tribute to Canada for stationing part of its armed forces on the European continent.

If there had been thousands of British, American and Canadian soldiers in Europe in 1914 and in 1939, neither the Kaiser nor Hitler would have gone to war.

"Today, because of the physical presence of your soldiers, and the British and American soldiers, the Soviet Union cannot have the slightest doubt about the consequences to herself of an aggression."

On the Algerian question, Mr. Mollet said "it is not acceptable" that the 1,200,000 Algerians of European origin be oppressed or chased out of Algeria by the 8,000,000 Moslems, "no more than it is acceptable that they profit by temporary economic

U.K. Lowers Plane Fares For Emigrants

LONDON (CP)—The British government has decided to allow airlines to extend cheap emigrant fare by air to Canada and the United States for three months, it was announced Saturday.

The reduction now applies until June 30 and will be reintroduced in November.

The scheme was started last autumn and was intended as a winter concession only, but the response induced requests for an extension.

Persons classified as emigrants pay about £60 ($168) for a single tourist fare instead of about £100. They can take extra baggage. It has been estimated that the airlines granting the reduced fare are carrying among them about 6,000 to 7,000 emigrants a month.

Your Canadian Red Cross is on the job serving for you whenever and wherever there is a need for help.

2,000 Sign Against Goldstream Cemetery

A 2,000-name petition opposing establishment of a cemetery across the route of a Greater Victoria water supply line will be presented to Health Minister Eric Martin.

City lawyer William Moresby, chairman of the Greater Victoria Citizens' Committee, said he felt 20,000 names could be obtained in a public drive.

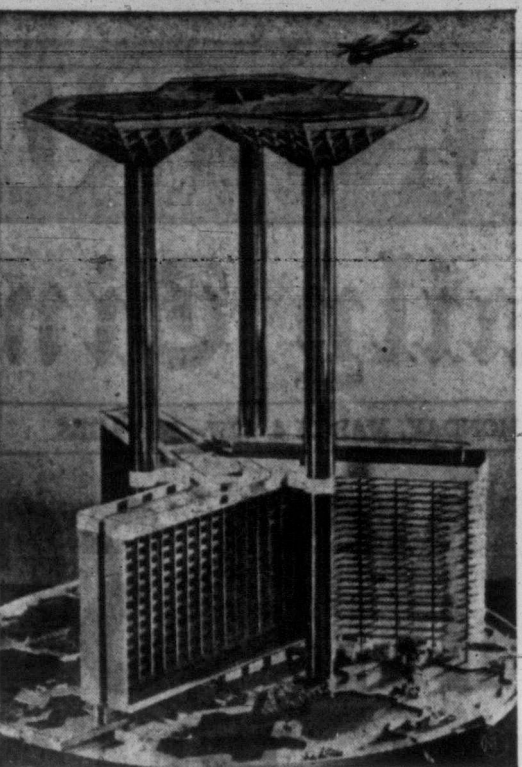

The petition opposes a decision announced last week by the Public Utilities Commission in favor of the Memorial Gardens Association (Canada) Ltd. Approval was given for a garden-type cemetery on 30 acres of former farm lands near the junction of Goldstream Road and the Trans-Canada Highway.

The petition points out a water supply pipeline to the city and district passes through the land designated for cemetery use "and that there is likely to be seepage from the cemetery into our water supply."

LONDON'S MODERN LOOK—This is Skyport One, a sketch of an airport conceived by James Dartford. Although designed for the London of 2000 A.D., its creator believes it could be built today. It would be located in St. George's Circus, not far from Waterloo Station and would be 500 feet tall. Planes and helicopters would use the platform atop the three tall, glass-enclosed elevator shafts through which passengers and crew members would be carried from street level. Other features would be a sky-top restaurant with a far-reaching view of the city. The building below would house offices, hotels and garages. (NEA.)

'Feather-Bedding' Charged As CPR Diesel Probe Opens

OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission inquiry today heard a charge and a denial that CPR diesel firemen engage in "feather-bedding."

Feather-bedding is a term for the employment of men at a union's insistence who are not necessary to operation.

CPR counsel Ian D. Sinclair of Montreal used the term to describe the employment of firemen on road and yard diesel engines, the issue that precipitated a nine-day strike of firemen in January.

"That is grossly unfair," replied David Lewis of Toronto, counsel for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC).

The exchange came as they delivered opening statements before a three-man royal commission headed by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The commission was set up by the federal government after it obtained a temporary settlement of the CPR stoppage. Recommendations of the commission are not binding on the disputants.

The union and CPR lawyers also clashed on commission procedure at the outset, starting with the question of whether the inquiry should move to other parts of Canada besides Ottawa.

The commission reserved decision on the point.

Gales Rock Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP)—Two icy, wind-whipped storms raced across the Atlantic provinces over the weekend cutting communications and slowing land, sea and air traffic.

A gale whistled off the Atlantic into Newfoundland Saturday breaking off telegraph communications with the island province for 15 hours. Some circuits, connecting with Cape Breton were still out of operation Sunday night.

No fatalities were attributed to either storm.

In Nova Scotia, a roaring gale swept ice pellets, sleet and rain across the province Friday, folding power and telegraph lines in eastern Nova Scotia.

WHITTON, England (CP)—A thief in this Middlesex village jacked up an automobile in a street and stole the front wheels.

PLYMOUTH, (CP)—Fred Northcott, a baker who specializes in wedding cakes, was non-plussed when a customer walked into his shop and asked for a divorce cake.

Then he had an inspiration. He made a cake, cut it down the middle, placed the halves back to back and inserted a plaque between them with the words: "Happy memories. Here's to freedom."

"The young ex-couple thought they ought not to part without some small farewell ceremony," Northcott said.

A special evensong service at St. Barnabas' Anglican Church Sunday at 1:30 p.m. will be broadcast over the CBC "National Church of the Air." The preacher will be Rev. Thomas Bailey. The service will be heard over CJVI from 1:30 to 2 p.m.

Terra Nova Completed By Late '58

Target date for completion of fitting out the destroyer escort Terra Nova at Victoria Machinery Depot has been set for the fall of 1958, Harold Husband, president, said today.

The electronics-packed DDE, one of the second-half group of 14 ordered by the RCN in the new-ship program now nearing completion, has been awaiting final approval by the Department of National Defence for the "lead" vessel in the group, built in Eastern Canada by Canadian Vickers.

A similar ship, the Fraser at Yarrow's Ltd., is a member of the first group, and will be ready for trials this summer.

Mr. Husband said work on the Terra Nova would go ahead as fast as required material is secured.

1,100 PEAK
"It is likely our present work force will build up to a peak of close to 1,100 at times while we are finishing the Terra Nova," he said.

He pointed out the need of new-ship orders to maintain a full working force. At present about 850 men are on the VMD payroll.

No new navy orders are yet in sight to take up the slack when the present program is finished.

"We are out after industrial work to keep busy," he said. "We are expanding industrial fabrication facilities. But nothing will take the place of ship-building."

$2,000 Program Of Scholarships Set by Shipyards

A new $2,000 annual scholarship program is being started at University of British Columbia this year by Yarrow's Ltd., and Burrard & Drydock Co. Ltd., UBC president Dr. Norman MacKenzie, announced today.

A $1,000 scholarship of $250 per year for four years will be offered to sons, daughters and legal dependents of each of the two companies each year.

Recipients of the Yarrow's award may attend either UBC or Victoria College for the first two years of university study. The awards are open to students completing high school and planning to enter any university course, and will be based on academic, personal and leadership qualities.

John Diefenbaker Again Nominated

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—John Diefenbaker, national Progressive Conservative party leader, was nominated Saturday to run in Prince Albert in the next federal general election. Mr. Diefenbaker was elected in Prince Albert in the 1953 federal general election.

Ms. Diefenbaker told some 200 persons at the convention: "I do not wish to publicize the exact date of the federal election at this point but I can tell you that it will be between now and June."

U.S. ADMIRAL'S VIEWPOINT

RN's Mediterranean Fleet Labelled 'Support Force'

LONDON (Reuters)—A newspaper today quotes Vice-Admiral Charles L. Brown, commander of the United States Sixth Fleet, as saying the British Navy henceforth will be useful only as a support force in its traditional stamping ground of the Mediterranean.

In a front-page report from the American flagship Salem, the News Chronicle quotes Brown as saying: "The Sixth Fleet packs more power and possesses a greater flexibility, versatility and instant readiness than any other mobile force in the area and very soon it will be greatly strengthened."

"While we carry out the attacking role, should it be necessary, it seems to me that the Royal Navy would be employed on the complementary role of keeping open our supply and communication lines."

Commenting editorially on the report, the News Chronicle says news of the Sixth Fleet's "astonishing power" is bound to be received with mixed feelings in Britain.

It is clear from the report, it says, that "the control we once exercised in this area is a thing of the past."

VANCOUVER — Max Chiz, 55, Vancouver, suffered a fractured jaw Sunday when he fell 40 feet from a wharf on Vancouver's waterfront. Police said Chiz was walking along a catwalk at Canadian Pacific Railway's Pier "B" when he slipped and fell. He is in fair condition.

ROCKET MOON FLIGHT DUE IN FIVE YEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Brig.-Gen. H. F. (Frank) Gregory, director of the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, said today the U.S. Air Force may shoot a rocket around the moon within five years.

Gregory confirmed an article in Missiles and Rockets magazine which quoted him as saying: "Several moon rocket study contracts are in the works, and it is imperative that we carry out these scientific research projects to stay ahead of the Russians."

"When I say that we will have a moon rocket in less than five years, it is a conservative estimate."

CYCLING CHAMP—AGE 3½

100 Blocks---100 Minutes

PORTLAND (AP)—David Draper, 3½ years old and a likely cycling champion, finally was crowned Sunday. But not stopped.

The family began searching for him Sunday, only minutes after he peddled away on his tricycle.

Later a policeman reported a small figure pumping vigorously away up a street part-way across town. But it was so far away the family concluded it could not be David. The search continued at a nearby park.

It was 100 minutes and 100 blocks away before a patrolman finally nabbed David, still peddling.

To the hoosegow they went, but the family was out searching and it was two hours before the police could notify them of David's safety.

Meanwhile, David got his tricycle and peddled around in the police station. "David Crockett," he said when asked his name. "You can call me Davey," he added, rounding another corner.

He still was going at it when father Frank Draper Jr. finally showed up to take him home.

Printers Favor Strike Action At Nanaimo Paper

NANAIMO—Members of the Nanaimo Typographical Union (ITU) employed by The Daily Free Press voted unanimously Friday in favor of strike action if current contract demands are not met.

It is understood a 21-cent hourly wage boost is acceptable to both union and management, with jurisdiction over offset work being the main point of contention.

The strike vote followed by only two days the official opening of the paper's new quarters by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Decision on the strike vote was communicated to international headquarters of the typographical union in Indianapolis, which will appoint a representative who will attempt to mediate the dispute.

The local cannot strike without permission of the international body.

According to B.C. labor laws, the union has 90 days after the taking of a strike vote in which to call a strike.

Toronto Telegram Sunday Issue Makes First Appearance March 17

TORONTO (CP)—John Bassett, Jr., chairman and publisher of The Telegram, today announced a Sunday morning edition will be distributed in Ontario starting March 17.

He said some of the details about the Sunday Telegram will be given later this week.

In his statement, on the front page of today's Evening Telegram, Mr. Bassett said he wished to dispel any idea that in publishing a Sunday newspaper The Telegram would be breaking the federal Lord's Day Act of 1906.

"Weak as the act may be... the suggestion that The Telegram is breaking the law and, by so doing, trying to force a change in the act, is not the case," he said.

"In listing the exceptions for work on Sunday, the act says any work of necessity or mercy."

HELD AS NECESSITY

"I hold the opinion most strongly that the publication of a Sunday morning newspaper by Canadians for Canadians is a 'work of necessity.' I have checked this opinion with responsible lawyers who agree."

"In an era dominated by atomic and hydrogen weapons, when the international picture, to say the least, is most uncertain, it was never more important for free men and women to have made available for them the news and facts of the world. It is a 'work of necessity' to gather and disseminate news seven days of the week, and not just six."

The Lord's Day Act of 1906 was passed by the federal government, and it is quite inconceivable that this government would break its own law. The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, wholly-owned by the government, broadcasts and telecasts news, as well as other programs, throughout the whole of Sunday. There is no specific exception made in the act for this activity and, therefore, the federal government must regard this as a 'work of necessity'.

"Those who suggest that, by the publication of The Sunday Telegram, the law will be broken are not consistent in their claims. The gathering and dissemination of news by privately-owned radio and television stations, as well as the presentation of other programs, has, of course, long since become recognized as a regular part of life in Ontario on Sunday, as well as other days of the week."

PAPERS NOW PUBLISH

"Work is carried on on Sunday in all Toronto newspapers in the gathering and preparing of news for editions which will appear Monday and, indeed, one Toronto newspaper makes its issues available for sale on Sunday evening."

"The Telegram does not, for one minute, suggest that these activities are illegal but that they qualify under the extinct act as 'work of necessity.'"

Mr. Bassett said he hopes readers will enjoy The Sunday Telegram and feel it is a most worthwhile publication. He added:

"Most particularly do I hope that all those members of the clergy who now use radio and television on Sunday as an instrument to further God's work will feel free to use the columns of The Sunday Telegram for the same purpose."

Mr. Low said the decision was reached at a weekend conference here with Alberta Premier E. C. Manning and Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia.

PGE Freight Derailed

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—A rock slide at Mile 23, between North Vancouver and Squamish slammed into a 40-car PGE freight train derailed at least two cars at 5 a.m. today.

No one was injured.

Officials said wrecking crews have been dispatched to the scene to clear the rock from the right of way. It is not known when the line will be reopened. Early reports gave no indication of the extent of damage to the southbound train.

The slide, believed caused by a combination of blasting crews working the area earlier and the vibration from the train, held up the scheduled passenger train due to leave North Vancouver at 7:45 a.m. today.

Robber Gets 18 Years near Portage la Prairie, Man. She went to the United States last October to train as a stewardess.

Normally, the plane would have been carrying a far greater number of passengers, but airline officials said Saturday flights from Alaska to Seattle generally are light.

Currie, a native of Portland, had been with the company about 10 years and was described by the airline and friends as "one of the best pilots in the business." He leaves a wife and four children. Edwards, who had been with the line about nine years, is survived by his widow and two children.

The plane crashed against a timbered slope after the pilot had radioed at 5:16 p.m. that he was flying "visual," which meant it was clear enough for him to fly without instruments.

The weather bureau reported, however, there were clouds over the Olympic Peninsula area about 2,000 to 4,000 feet. Conjecture was that the plane flew into a cloud bank to disaster.

scheme, that they were using it merely as "election bait."

A federal authority told a reporter: "You saw what Mr. Hees said last week? Well, this is our answer."

Health Minister Martin gave notice on the Commons order paper of a resolution which would precede the actual introduction of enabling legislation.

The federal health insurance proposal was made to the provinces in January, 1956.

Officials said they consider that five provinces have agreed to enter—Ontario, British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland. They believe Nova Scotia and possibly New Brunswick may also come in soon.

The federal government would pay half the cost of the scheme, estimated to total about $400,000,000 if all the provinces enter. However, Ontario had indicated it would be difficult to get its plan ready to operate before January, 1959.
